HISTORIC REBIRTH FOR TRUCKEE – The 100–year–old town of Truckee, obviously showing signs of old age with its ancient buildings and run–down appearance, may soon undergo a major facelifting. The above architectural sketch shows how Commercial Row might look when the restoration project is completed. The Downtown Merchants Association hopes to obtain federal funds to finance a large portion of the cost. –Sun Photo.

Truckee Restoration Campaign Underway

Over 50 persons attended a "Restoration of Truckee" meeting Monday night in the historic Truckee Hotel to hear professional proposals from architects, engineers, and a restoration specialist suggesting the downtown area be reborn as a town of the 1800's.

The Downtown Merchants Association and architect Faradg Gilan-Farr of Tahoe City presented a tentative drawing of Commercial Row as it might appear following a single theme of "preservation of the past."

The plan calls for a spacious parking area behind the commercial buildings with a walk-through mall midway down the block, extensive landscaping and small park areas, and new store facades and board walks as was typical in the last century.

Financing of the restoration project can be made through several federal agencies, says Stephanie Anderson, secretary of the DMA. Those named were the Office of Economic Development and the Housing and Urban Development agencies. She explained up to 80 per cent of the cost can be received through grants with the remaining funds the responsibility of the community.

It was learned, however, that a direct cash outlay by area residents and businessmen can be substituted with "self-help" endeavors such as volunteer workers, materials, and professional assistance.

Another meeting has been set for February 16 at the Truckee Hotel at 7:30 p.m. to begin the necessary research and study required by the federal agencies.

Supervisors Set To Approve Lakeworld Plan

County supervisors in a tense session last Tuesday voted 3–2 to prepare a resolution amending the general plan to provide for Lakeworld's proposed 6,000 – lot subdivision near Truckee.

Last week, after several hours of testimony, they decided to delay a decision on changing 4,000 acres from general forest environment to urban density. Supervisors at that time indicated that they would delay a decision until the new planning director has time to make recommendations. Stanley Mansfield reports for work as planning director March 1, and the board indicated a decision would be delayed until April 7, but suggested the matter could be taken up before that date if the new director could study it and make recommendations earlier.

The unexpected action came Tuesday after a letter from Robert W. Cook, an urban planning consultant who assisted in preparation of the county general plan, was read.

The letter was written at the request of Lakeworld Development, as indicated in the first paragraph.

Supervisors Dean Lawrence and Ralph Buchanan voted against the resolution to change the general plan. They both contended the action was premature in view of last week's board action.

"I wonder who paid him (Cook)?" was Mrs. Lawrence's first reaction to the communication. The question never was answered in open meeting.

Chairman Willie Curran, on the basis of the letter, immediately moved to change the general plan.

"The reason for deferring action was to get some sort of professional advice," contributed William Thomas.

"We are not getting advice from a professional planner," countered Mrs. Lawrence.

"If Cook were not a professional planner we would not have accepted the general plan," reasoned Robert Long, as he asked the board to be consistent. He suggested the board should accept the general plan and the letter's recommendations, or reject them both.

Mrs. Lawrence, who admittedly had difficulty containing her temper, charged she "found the letter on my desk only this morning, and I have not had a chance to read it. It is improper and I mean it."

Ralph Buchanan reminded the others that the board last week defeated a motion to continue a study of the proposal to this week. He said, "I am not opposed to it or saying we shouldn't do it, but we should study it. I don't like something shoved at us, and I don't think anybody should vote now."

"This is a $14 million project in the Truckee area, and as long as the subdivider builds roads and handles erosion and such problems I am here to push it," Curran contended.

Thomas, who said he was on the board when the general plan was approved, recalled that the "general plan is a guideline, continually to be reviewed with current thinking."

Mrs. Lawrence questioned whether Truckee is completely behind the proposal, saying phone calls to her from Truckee residents did not indicate that they are. However, she said "the letter may be all right, but I haven't even had a chance to read it."

"In all fairness to the people here last week, I would think it is not fair to pass on it this week. I am not opposed to the subdivision, but this county has made some serious mistakes and is still operating under the same ordinance when mistakes were made," was Buchanan's thinking.

"We are putting the dollar sign on subdivisions and putting a price tag on amending the general plan, and this is not the way to do it," Buchanan added.

Long pointed out that most people who testified at the earlier public hearing objected to alleged erosion, water, sewage disposal and other related problems. He did not get the "impression" that they were opposed to altering the general plan. He said:

"It is natural progression. We are getting a subdivision of some quality contiguous to an existing town. It is an obvious place for a subdivision."

Sewer Hook-Up Urged By County Health Officer

Local residents with sewer lines near their property have been asked by Dr. Ray Wiser, local health officer, to stop using septic tanks and hook-up to the Truckee-Donner Public Utility District line as soon as possible.

"This is directed particularly to those along the main line at Donner Lake and the recently completed Donner Trails-Meadow Park system," Dr. Wiser noted.

"The heavy rainfall is causing many septic systems to overflow, according to a survey by Cy Armstrong, area sanitarian," Dr. Wiser said. "Sewage effluent can carry many types of disease organisms, such as hepatitis."

He pointed out that those property owners served by a sewer line already are being assessed for it, whether they are connected or not, and that the only additional cost would be the actual hook-up to the line.

Those desiring further information are asked to contact Truckee Sanitary District at 587-3804.

Otto Sieg

Otto Sieg, 69, Donner Lake, died February 3 from a heart attack while enroute to a Sacramento hospital.

He is survived by his wife, Marie, and two sons. A native of Germany, Sieg and his family during a visit to East Germany during the 1930's were forced to attempt an escape over the Berlin wall.

Sieg has been employed as caretaker for the Donner Lake Property Owner's beach for the past two years.

Funeral services were held at the Skylawn Abbey of the Chimes, Vallejo, February 3 and burial was conducted at the Skylawn Memorial Park.

Uniform Fire Code For County Probable

A uniform fire code for Nevada county should be ready for adoption before next summer's dry season.

County Counsel Leo Todd told supervisors that his office is preparing this ordinance as an attempt to abate fire hazards, such as weedfilled vacant lots. Disclosure that this ordinance is in the works came after Supervisor Dean Lawrence asked to have laws in this area explained.

Todd contended that all the local volunteer fire departments now have the authroity to abate nuisances under state law. However, "for some reason they are reluctant to use their authority," he added.

Todd said he could encourage each fire district to adopt a fire abatement ordinance, but is reluctant to do that because of the confusion that would result from having different regulations in various parts of Nevada county.

Thus, the idea of having a countywide ordinance evolved. It is being drafted by the deputy county counsel at Truckee.

Both Mrs. Lawrence and Todd indicated that their specific concern is over one lot which is overgrown with weeds.

Mrs. Lawrence wondered if fire departments still would be reluctant to act when a uniform ordinance goes into effect. Todd replied that if they do not act, the supervisors "can put pressure on the district attorney to prosecute" the owner of the unsafe lot.

Neither county official identified the lot overgrown with weeds nor the department that won't require the owner to get rid of them. But Todd noted that "the people involved are justifiably concerned. We intend to have the legal machinery by next summer, and somebody had better clean off that lot."

Mrs. Lawrence added "it just isn't fair that property owners are in constant fear of fire and the local fire department won't do anything about it."

School Board Changes Drug Arrest Policy

Students arrested on charges of using or possessing dangerous drugs or narcotics no longer will be automatically suspended from school, the Tahoe – Truckee Unified School District board unanimously declared last Wednesday night.

Instead of suspension for the 45 to 60 days between the time of arrest and the court hearing, board members Earl Meixner, Jack DeRyk, C. Robert Maughan and William Conners felt the student should remain in school taking his normal schedule of subjects, but not be allowed to participate in any extra–curricular activities.

Previously a student arrested for a drug violation was immediately suspended from school from the trial date. If found guilty, the student was automatically expelled. No mention of appeal to the board was made in the previous policy.

Several parents, teachers, the clergy and the law enforcement officials pleaded to the board that this policy had been extremely harsh on the student and that many times the time lost during the pre–trial suspension period could not be made–up.

The school board also agreed to a change that conviction on a drug charge would not necessarily mean explusion from attending school in the district. They decided that each case should be reviewed on its individual merits, including background information on the student to be presented by teachers, law enforcement officers, the probation agency and other interested parties.

Meixner, who moved the deletion of the old policy and institution of the new one, commented that the district is more interested in "protecting the other children" than in "penalizing" the offender during the pre–trial period.

The board has taken "a real forward step," in revising its policy on drug violators, noted Joe Pelletier, a parent and deputy probation officer for Placer County.

In other action, the school board took under advisement a proposal by Dr. James C. Davis of the University of Nevada Research and Educational Planning Center to undertake a master plan study of educational needs within the district.

Dr. Davis said his five–phase study of curriculum, enrollment, present facilities, present and future land use, district transportation requirements and costs would take approximately four months and cost the district about $4,500.

The study would "describe in great detail to the board and to the architect the district's needs so that schools can be designed to fit those specific needs," Dr. Davis said.

The school board noted it would seek out other persons in the school master plan field for a comparative analysis of Dr. Davis' proposal.

"Tales Of Tahoe" Is Popular In Local Area

"Tales of Tahoe," a new book by David J. Stollery, Jr. of Tahoe City, is enjoying brisk sales in the North Lake Tahoe and Truckee-Donner communities, according to its publishers

In the book Stollery seems to have captured the complexities of Lake Tahoe in a odd mixture of fact and fancy, history and legend, and truth and myth.

Sky Miles To Fill Vacant Planning Post

Schuyler Miles, a motel owner in the Donner Lake area, was appointed to the Nevada County Planning Commission last Tuesday.

Miles will replace veteran commissioner Francis Longo, who resigned last month because he is taking a jot outside Nevada county.

Board Chairman Willie Curran nominated Miles to the fifth district planning post, and the nomination was approved unanimously.

Curran said Miles is a member of the Truckee Lions Club and the fire department.

Action was taken after Longo's letter of resignation was received. In it he said he has been "honored to have been your appointee to this post and trust my service has been a credit to you and a benefit to the people of this district."

The supervisors accepted Longo's resignation with regret and thanked him "for his many years of service to Nevada county."

Longo also resigned from the task force of the Overall Economic Development Plan. Appointed to replace him was Les Geary of Truckee. The vote was 4-1, however, because Supervisor Dean Lawrence was unsure whether the supervisors appoints task force members or whether the OEDP executive committee handles that function. Supervisor William Thomas said he is sure the board appoints the task force, although members may have been recommended by the executive committee first.

Later, however, this appointment was rescinded as it was learned the OEDP executive committee does indeed appoint task force members.

Weekend Snowmobile Competition At Squaw Valley A Big Success

Thrills and spills but no serious injuries marked the fifth annual running of the Tahoe – Truckee Snowmobile Races last weekend.

Being the first USSA–sanctioned meet of the season scores of racers made the journey to Squaw Valley from such places as San Jose, Mammoth, Westwood, and Carson City to compete for racing points.

The pit area on the south side of the drag strip harbored modified and stock machines bearing such exotic names as Ski–doo, Artic Cat, Polaris, Rupp, Scorpian, Bombadier, and Sno–jet. Also the families of the drivers milled about, dressed in gaudy jump suits and helmets, waiting patiently for the women and junior events to begin.

On the north side of the track spectators lined the safety fence, unconsciously stepping back a step as the speeding snowmobiles roared past a few feet away.

The first events featuring the most powerful modified machines in drag competition were relatively uneventful although the snowmobiles reached speeds over 65 miles per hour at the finish line.

In contrast the tight sprint oval events saw many spectacular collisions, spills, and near – misses. Miraculously, however, no one received more than a good shaking up or a bruised leg or arm. One careless racer even fell from his machine and was run over by two other snowmobiles before he could get out of the way.

Sponsored by the North Tahoe and Truckee–Donner Chambers of Commerce the annual event proved to be a financial and promotional success.

Betty Layton, manager of the North Tahoe chamber, remarked that although the Squaw Valley site was adequate she hopes next year's races can be held in the Martis Valley as originally planned.

Final competition results were as follows:

Modified: Class V, Drag, Norm Sayler, Soda Springs; Class IV, drag, Terry Craft, Mammoth; Class III, Drag, Bob Savage, Mammoth; Class II, Drag, Curley Wright, Sierraville; Class I, Drag, Mino Harada, Reno.

THRILLS AND SPILLS - Racers had trouble staying on their speeding snowmobiles on the tight sprint oval tract and scenes like above were common as a strong competitive spirit forced drivers to the limits of their ability. Truckee, the "town without trees," appears to be finally awakening from a 100-year sleep. Groggily at first, bleary-eyed, its townspeople now are realizing their pleasant slumber has turned into a nightmare . . . a nightmare or run - down shacks and buildings, gaudy, neon store fronts, treeless, dirty sidewalks and streets, and faceless visitors who drive through the downtown area without stopping.

Now businessmen, residents, and other concerned persons are talking, planning, and studying the possibilities of restoring some of the lost character of Truckee. Over 50 persons met in the Truckee Hotel Monday night to inform themselves of restoration proposals and ways those plans can be financed.

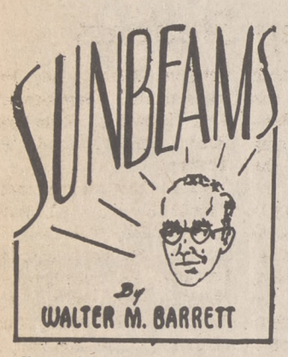

Old towns are often slow to change and Truckee is no exception, but the influx of tourism as the region'a new economic mainstay becomes more obvious each day. The days of the booming lumber industry, the railroads, and the commercial ice business are gone forever.

The constant battle between county control versus local government now threatens to be fought on a different front. Gordon Reddall, manager of the Truckee-Tahoe Airport, says this threat is drawn into sharp focus by the following excerpt from the agenda for the interim hearings of the State Committee on Revenue and Taxation under the heading of "Local Government, recommended: (1) require each County Board of Supervisors to review and approve the budget of each special district lying wholly within the county and, (2) transfer to the county the fire protection operations of special districts and abolish all fire protection districts."

Reddall says that in order to combat this growing threat, a California Special Districts Association has been recently formed to fight to retain local autonomy.

The progressive Davis Joint Unified School District recently became one of the first to seek, and receive voter approval to increase interest rates on school bonds. Although only a two-thirds majority was needed, over 75 per cent of the voters approved a hike in the interest rate on nearly $4 million from five to seven per cent.

Let's hope our own voting population is equally enlightened to the needs associated with providing "quality" education for our children and will support the special bond election February 24 involving $1 million.

It must have come as a surprise to most residents of Nevada County that it was necessary to reach into Southern California for a local planning director. It just seems to us that a person familiar with the needs of the county, or at least with Northern California, would have been chosen for the position.

News reports out of the county seat certainly indicate a vital need for a planner to put things in shape if the county, and particularly the Truckee - Donner portion, is to develop and maintain any order in growth. There can not be any question that growth is certain. There remains only the question of what nature this development will take.

Unless something is done to promote orderly development, things are very apt to get completely out of hand. Thousands of people now making their homes and conducting business in the more urban areas of the state are quick to seize an opportunity to invest a few surplus dollars in a small tract of land in the mountains, hopefully to establish a refuge, a vacation spot and even build a shack for shelter.

The Truckee - Donner area is ideal for this type of invasion. The climate, picturesque scenery, recreational advantages, shopping districts and neighborly atmosphere all provide distinct advantages. We have already seen some excellent examples of this type of growth. Many of these people pay a minimum tax and oppose any move for progress, fearing that any progressive movement will raise the costs. Their desire is not for community advancement; they have this in their home city and want no part of it in the recreation atmosphere.

Proper planning, for both residential and commercial development, is becoming more and more important in the area if environmental pollution and shanty towns are to be avoided. Whether a Southern California man will understand the problems to be solved is a moot question. We can only hope he does and that steps will be taken to prevent further depreciation of the status quo.

Valentines Sent To Servicemen

Judy Barben and Phyllis McMurray, co-ordinators of "Operation Valentine," report that the project was a tremendous success. Approximately 4,000 valentines handmade by school children were sent to individual servicemen and to military hospitals in Vietnam.

Rejection Slips Anonymous would like to express their thanks to the children and to the many donors who made it possible to send these remembrances to our men in service.

Any Valentines yet received by the group will be sent.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Sierra Sun:

Two weeks ago news articles indicated that approval of Lakeworld Development Company's huge subdivision by the Board of Supervisors would be delayed until after the new County planning director had assumed his duties and could provide an evaluation. I was quite surprised to learn that the Board acted suddenly one week later to approve the change in the General Plan to accommodate Lakeworld. This action seems to leave questions unanswered.

Is Lakeworld Development planning to divert water to create a lake? A lake did not show on the plans I saw briefly in a County office at Nevada City recently. Since Lakeworld's representative happened to be present, I asked him about the lake which had been mentioned in early news releases about the project. I was told that there were no plans for a lake. The next day, the Sierra Sun began running legal notices that Lakeworld had indeed applied to the State Water Resources Control Board for permission to divert water from Trout Creek for "recreational and fish culture purposes." A few years ago the Truckee – Donner PUD was denied water from this source to serve its future development needs. Will we now see this water used to create a lake to enhance the sale of subdivision lots?

What effect will this huge subdivision have upon the general ecology of the area? Will drainage and run-off problems be created? What about eventual siltation and pollution of the streams that provide natural drainage of this large tract of land?

Why doesn't the county require a development of this size to put in sewers from the very beginning? I realize that subdividers would not like this requirement because it would cost more in initial development expenses, and would make the price of lots higher and, consequently, harder to sell.

It takes years to solve sewage problems of an area after we are acutely aware of them. When the rest of our area is in the process of trying to solve the problem, why shouldn't new developments be required to provide sewage facilities along with streets?

Perhaps the business community will benefit greatly from this 6,000 lot subdivision. The increased assessed valuation providing additional tax base makes it sound very attractive to homeowners as well. Decisions to amend the General Plan should be carefully considered from all standpoints, however, not just what seems to be obvious economic factors.

In some ways, "progress" has destroyed many facets of the natural beauty of our region that make this an attractive recreational area. It isn't hard to imagine that within a very few years there will be no open spaces left around Truckee where local residents or tourists can enjoy stream fishing, hunting, wilderness camping, jeeping, snowmobiling, hiking, horseback-riding, snowshoeing, cross-country skiing, etc. We may have to be content with more urbanized forms of recreation, including the golf courses subdividers so generously provide for us. Perhaps the local population will be able to adjust, but I wonder if the tourist will?

Our area has compiled quite a record for not caring enough about the esthetic or ecological consequences of "progress." The freeway realigned and destroyed the beauty of much of Donner Creek. The Sanitary District's line disturbed most of what was left. Zoning was changed on land along the Truckee River to allow more of it to be used for industry. The county has permitted two dumps to be located along the Truckee River banks, including the one currently in use. The Sanitary District's primary treatment ponds are located only a few yards above and beyond the Truckee River. Some residents are aware that fill material has been placed in Donner Lake. A large plot of land at one of the freeway entrances to Truckee was allowed to be completely stripped of trees and all other vegetation for a motor movie that was never built. All these things were done in the name of "progress," but few will claim that they show good planning.

The benefits to individuals or businesses in this community because of a huge subdivision are minor compared to the huge profits that the developers and their salesmen will take out. Having picked up the land at a cheap price, they expect to be in and out with their pockets full within five years. Many of the buyers will only see their lot once (when they decide to buy), and do not intend to build upon it, but to "save it for the kids."

In the meantime, 4,000 acres of open space directly adjacent to us, stretching from the west end of Donner Lake almost to downtown Truckee, will be chopped into lots and criss-crossed with roads and utility lines. By the time full development (houses) takes place, in perhaps 20 to 30 years, the needs for the land may be quite different. No one can foresee what the best use of large parcels of privately held land will be in the future. But premature development is irreversible.

I don't blame the landowner who may be forced to sell his holdings because of inequitable tax structure or appraisal practices. I do blame all of us who live here, however, for what happens to the quality of life as the open spaces and natural beauty of the area (our only real resource) gradually disappear as they have in urban areas.

I think that the Board of Supervisors acted hastily, and, in fact, when the public had been placated into believing that no action on this proposal was contemplated for at least a month.

Editor, Sierra Sun:

On January 2, 1970, my wife and I had the pleasure of traveling through Truckee on a mid-winter tour of the Sierra. Having skied in the area before, I thought of taking advantage of the pleasant snow conditions. I rented skis at the Boreal Ridge resort. My wife, due to current pregnancy conditions, was unable to ski, and expressed the desire to rest.

We decided on the Alpine Village motel, because of its proximity to the ski resort. From the highway, Interstate 80, we were greeted by a twenty – foot – long vacancy sign which was cheerfully displayed in the door of the motel office.

As we passed the office and drove into the parking lot, we waved at the three teen-aged girls whose apparent function was the servicing of the motel units. I estimated a total of five cars in the parking lot of the motel, which appeared to consist of at least fifteen units.

On entering the office we were surprised to observe the three girls cowering in the corner, and in great agitation. A second glance at the door revealed that the vacancy sign had been reversed, and now read "no vacancy." We inquired of the girl behind the desk regarding the question of vacancies.

She responded, with obvious confusion, that she did not know if there was a vacancy, that she had recently awakened, and that her mother had not yet arrived. The first response was in flagrant contradiction to the vacancy signs and the absence of automobiles in the parking lot, while the relevance of the last response failed to register with me. We chose not to press the issue, and returned to our car. On the way, we were approached by a gentleman who asked to have his car, which was stalled, pushed. We obliged, and in the course of discussion, ascertained that this person had been a guest at the motel the previous night . . . further evidence of a possible vacancy, I asked myself.

If the logic of the situation fails to impress you, then abandon your confusion, for there was no logic.

The simple fact of the matter is that my wife and I are black. What you have just read is an account of that everyday American institution, racial discrimination.

Rationalize the actions of the girls, if you will, but that cannot alter the fact that as we passed by the motel later that evening, both vacancy signs were again displayed, and beckoned travelers, the right kind that is, from the road and from the cold.

As Harry Golden said, only in America . . . and in South Africa and a few other places, perhaps. Having traveled extensively in Mexico, and having had the greatest of courtesy extended to us there, we used to be greatly dismayed at the great lack of hospitality and sensitivity displayed by our fellow countrymen. My wife's traveling experiences are more extensive than mine, and include time spent in both eastern and western Europe. Not even in the Soviet Union, Hungary, Poland, or Czechoslovakia has she experienced the everyday idiocies that black people are confronted with in this country.

You may wonder why I waited an entire month before recounting these events. Or you may ask why I write at all. And I can truthfully say that I don't know for I suspect that it will have absolutely no impact on anyone.

Perhaps if printed in your newspaper, someone can use it to line a garbage can. This is an exercise in futility. Mr. Nixon, "bring us together?" Is there really any possibolity? I doubt it.

Editor, Sierra Sun:

(Editor's Note: This was intended as an open letter to John Corbin, superintendent of the Tahoe – Truckee Unified School District).

Where were you when hundreds of local school kids turned out for the start of the school ski program last week? You should have seen the line at the rental shop – where I passed out poles for over two hours, cleaning out the racks completely of every small size. Over 400 went through the rental shop alone!

That first week we ran out of boots, poles, skis, helpers and time. The only thing we had plenty of were the kids, and the patience of the Alpine Meadows ski instructors. They gave hundreds of lessons to kids who had never been on skis – and might never have had the chance if it hadn't been for the school ski program. For only one dollar Alpine Meadows supplies a lift ticket, a lesson, and equipment for those who have none.

I attended a board meeting where you stated that an after-school program would not work. You should see it work now. This week the program was rescheduled, more help recruited and Alpine Meadows purchased 60 new pairs of skis. (How they hope to recover their investment at $1 per day for an eight-week program I can't imagine.)

Now we are organized efficiently to handle the large numbers who want to participate. Come see us now, Mr. Corbin! Come out and see the hundreds of rosy – cheeked, smiling youngsters enjoying the fresh air and sunshine while learning to ski.

Children who never had a chance to ski will learn now. Our community really owes a debt of a great deal of gratitude to Alan Ewen, manager of Alpine Meadows. He knows how the kids feel about it – all he has to do is look into the eyes of the little skiers as they come sliding down the hill every Friday afternoon.

Mr. Corbin, you should see what a really good job your teachers are doing. Led by Paul Steinhauser, they are aiding the ski instructors, patroling the hill, checking in and putting equipment away and generally making the program work. They knew it would work and now they have proved it. The opportunity now exists for snow-country reared children to learn to ski, which is one of the joys of living in snow country. Come and see it work, Mr. Corbin.

Discharge Of Treated Sewage Into Truckee River Hinted

Further study of the dangers of direct discharge of reclaimed water into the Truckee River as a means of sewage effluent disposal from North Lake Tahoe and Truckee is necessary, North Tahoe Public Utility District engineer Ralph Stowell of Sacramento told utility directors.

"I don't mean making a river into a sewer like is being done in the Midwest," Stowell said. "I'm not proposing to degrade the river, but only asking, is there a level of treatment we can reach which will allow us to discharge?"

Eight – hundred acres of disposal ponds would be required if sewage were piped down the Truckee River to a treatment plant and disposal area.

Stowell said that a committee representing five utility districts in the region should look closer at high-level sewage treatment in plants perhaps at Tahoe City or near Squaw Valley.

He said there are indications that the Lahonton Regional Water Quality Control Board might consider changing its policy against any direct discharges if water quality could be maintained at a certain level.

Any final phase of a regional sewer system is five to 10 years away and could cost more than $20 million, Stowell predicted.

Chappie Seeks Extension Of Financial Disclosure Law

Assemblyman Gene Chappie (R-Cool), Chairman of the Assembly Rules Committee, today introduced an amendment extending the effective date of the state's new financial disclosure law.

Under Chappie's proposal, the filing deadline for public officials, employes and candidates for public office to disclose their financial worth above $10,000 would be extended from March 1 to April 6.

In explaining the need for the additional time, Chappie said:

"Local officials need more time to fulfill the spirit and the letter of the current law.

"For the past six months, many local officials, guided by varying and often contradictory county counsel opinions, have tried to determine the meaning of the 1969 disclosure law.

"An opinion was requested from the Attorney General. That opinion has been handed down, but careful reading makes it clear that more time will be required before the March 1 deadline for compliance with the law."

Chappie pointed out that municipal elections in California are scheduled April 14, thus the new disclosure deadline would fall one week before the spring elections. He said this would give the voters sufficient time to examine candidates' financial statements.

"Requiring disclosure March 1 serves no public purpose that is not equally well served by the April 6 deadline," Chappie said.

"There are no elections during the extended time. However, these extra weeks will give local officials the necessary time to digest the Attorney General's opinion and prepare the necessary disclosure forms.

"Many of our county counsels are trying to determine how to carry out the disclosure law passed last year. They urgently need the additional time I am proposing."

Chappie introduced the amendment to AB 51, a measure he authored this year exempting certain local governmental officials from the disclosure law.

He said he authored his original bill prior to introduction of the Monagan-Way Conflict of Interest Act of 1970.

"The Monagan-Way legislation would correct the vagueness and uncertainty of the disclosure provisions in the current law," he said. "But local officials need the additional time now, and cannot wait for the comprehensive and complex Monagan-Way Act to move through the Legislature."

Junior Women To Attend Conference

The Tahoe Sierra Junior Women's Club has been invited to attend their district's winter conference in Sutter. February 7. The conference theme is "Winter Fantasies" and will honor club presidents.

The growing need for an adequate ambulance to take care of the needs in this district has become so apparent that local civic organizations are forming committees to investigate the purchase of a modern vehicle. Under tentative plans the ambulance would be controlled and operated by the Truckee Volunteer Fire Department.

A crew of workmen under the direction of Robert Martin of Reno, will soon begin the work of dismantling the large paper mill at Floriston, 11 miles east of Truckee on the Truckee River, it was announced in Reno this week. The Crown-Willamette Paper Co., which owns Floriston, is having the mill stripped of machinery and equipment. Several of the larger buildings are to be torn down for materials and most of the materials and equipment are to be sold. Floriston, which was closed down several years ago, because of the charges that the water for Reno was contaminated by the refuse of the mill, was built about 40 years ago and for many years employed several hundred men in the production of paper. The mill was built by the Fliesshacker interests which had extensive timber holdings in the region. A large number of small residences and a large hotel building at the site will not be torn down, and will be retained by the Crown-Willamette Company, it was indicated.

Pio Petroni has been hospitalized recently with a mild stroke but Mrs. Petroni was taking him home Monday and we're sure he'll be much better soon. Her brother Vicenzo Monsagrati has been visiting them from Italy and she hopes he will stay in the country at least another two months.

Talk about confusion! Both Johnny Richards and Jay Richards were hospitalized last week and of all things - placed in the same room and both had the same doctor. With the same first initial and last names and Dr. Wiser giving the instructions, those nurses were perplexed daily with which got what. Johnny cracks up when telling about it. Their other buddy, Johnny Moretta, is in a hotel in the city getting some work done on his teeth but he did call to say he's certainly getting lonesome.

The Downtown Businessman's Assn.. held a meeting Monday evening, which I attended but can't report on it because deadline is noon Monday so will tell you about it next week. It seems they have reached a real fine goal in face-lifting Truckee in that the architect has the plans ready for presentation. Truckee's front street will go western with board walks and all. Though I don't know all the particulars until after the meeting, it seems there is available money from the government both to purchase property and to fix it up, but all the foot work must first be done by volunteers. Exciting!

Well, I understand that the Board of Supervisors reversed themselves last week and voted to change the County General Plan for the Lakeworld subdivision. The opponents to that development are primarily concerned with the pollution of Trout and Alder Creeks which run through over a mile of this land. If we had a good sewer system there would be no worries, right?

Tahoe is still looking to Martis Valley for a site, I read, which many people violently oppose. Surely there must be some site further north of town, perhaps between Prosser and Boca, that would be acceptable to everyone. I am for new development as each new lot owner is a taxpayer and it takes a little more strain off the individual, but I do not like the idea that Tahoe is developing like crazy causing all the planners to deem it necessary as a consequence for our area to stay natural. It seems totally unfair to tell one property owner he can't develop under the County General Plan, yet he must go on paying high taxes just so some nature lover can look at or wander over his property. The U. S. Government should be responsible for these open areas and should be forced to buy them and until they do, I feel the planners are taking up a position of dictatorship.

Read a most interesting article in the Feb. 6 issue of the Bee entitled "Truckee River Sewage Study is Urged By Tahoe Utility Engineer." It states that Ralph Stowell of Sacramento, an engineer for North Tahoe Public Utility, wants to study all plans of treatment with the idea they might come up with something suitable for direct discharge into the Truckee, without contamination. He stated (and I quote) "I'm not proposing to degrade the river, but only asking, is there a level of treatment we can reach which will allow us to discharge? Eight hundred acres of disposal ponds just don't seem good for the Truckee area" (Unquote) Don't tell us they are still tossing around 800 acres of PONDS in Martis?

Historic Guide To Truckee-Tahoe Area

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twenty-first in a series of excerpts taken from "Edwards' Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by W. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican).

At Camp 18, or properly speaking, Clinton, about two miles below and east of the town of Boca, is located in one of those many romantic spots so common to the eye of the tourist in this section. The abrupt rise of the mountains on the south side of the Truckee River give a peculiar wildness to the view, and to the admirer of mountain scenery the locality is unsurpassed by any on the whole river. The mill here is owned by the Pacific Lumber and Wood Company, a corporation with headquarters in Truckee, the stock of which is owned by heirs of the late F. Burckhalter. It is one of the largest and best appointed mills on the line of the C. P Railroad and produces from 35 to 40 thousand feet of lumber daily. In addition to the sawmill proper they have a full outfit of planers, lath and molding machines, and produce all kinds of dressed lumber.

The mill has been burned twice, once in 1873 and again in 1879. From the experience gained in those two fires the present mill has been supplied with all the modern appurtenances for protection against fire.

Mr. F. Burckhalter laid claim and justly to being the originator of the plan of logging by means of a narrow guage railroad. Tired of seeing the heavy work and slow manner of hauling logs with oxen and horses, he had constructed at a cost of $40,000 a narrow guage railroad from the top of the mountain overlooking the mill through the forest to its terminus, five miles distant. Many other mill men have adopted the plan.

The logs are brought to the top of the bluff overlooking the mill and then placed in a chute 1800 feet long which carries them into the mill pond below in the almost incredible time of from 20 to 30 seconds, according to the size of the log.

During the season a crew of about 65 men is kept busily engaged, very few being Chinamen and those only as yard workers and chopping cord wood.

The log camp and mill are connected with the office at Truckee by a telephone wire ten miles long.

Snow Talk

By VI and CARSON WHITE

Two young college students announced their engagement last weekend at the Mickey Mouse Chalet on Donner Lake. Laura Baxter of Healdsburg and Mark Gleason of Santa Rosa had been on a skiing holiday with friends at Sun Valley, Idaho, and told the news on their way back to Mark's parents Norma and Lee Gleason who were at their cabin for the weekend.

They are both twenty years old and have been attending Santa Rosa Junior College, but plan to transfer to Sacramento State.

We wish them much happiness in their future life together.

Yosemite announced a new service to visitors staying at the Ahwahnee Hotel or Yosemite Lodge, a free bus trip to Badger Pass ski area. This will be a big help to alleviate congestion at the parking area and eliminate wrestling with chains when needed.

Buses leave the valley from 7:45 to 11 each morning and leave from Badger at 3:00, 4:30 and 5:15 p.m.

There is also a valley shuttle car that makes 30-minute loops around the valley free of charge for those staying at the hotel or lodge.

Two showing of "The Killy Challenge" were held last weekend, one on Channel 2 at 4:30 p.m. Saturday and on Channel 10 at 2 p.m. Sunday. The second of an eight-week series by the famous French Olympic medal winner. He races against top skiers in the United States. The next dual slalom and giant slalom will be shown from Park City, Utah, this weekend at the same times as listed.

Televised programs of the FIS World Ski Championships will be shown from Val Gardena, Italy, the ladies downhill, slalom and giant slalom Saturday and the men's downhill and giant slalom Sunday.

Check your TV schedule for times.

Jumping and cross - country and closing ceremonies will be viewed from Czechoslavakia Feb. 22.

It's unfortunate that the hassel between the United States Ski Association, it's fund raising agent, International Management, and ABC caused poor TV coverage of European races, but the fact that the two World Cup races being held in the United States will not be televised is a sore point to many people who have donated money to the U.S. ski team.

Our American racers will compete at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, Feb. 21-22 and at Heavenly Valley, March 7-8 against the foreign competitors. At this point, Patrick Russel of France is top man, having the most points from this season's races.

Sunday, however, a teammate Nean Noel Augert won the special slalom, Russel was second and Bill Kidd of the U.S. a fine third.

The U.S. Ski Team is showing stronger strength now and it's possible that one of them will be in the winner's circle, especially the girl's team. Competing are Barbara and Marilyn Cochran, Judy Nagel, Karen Budge, Kiki Cutter and Julie Wolcott in the women's events and on the men's team are: Rick Chaffee, Bob Cochran, Bill Kidd, Hank Kashiwa, Mike Lafferty, Steve Lathrop, Tyler Palmer, Eric Poulsen, Rudd Pyies and Spider Sabich.

The should make a good showing on the U.S. courses.

Closer to home, the Veteran's FWSA racers will again fight it out, this time at Ski Incline, Nevada, at the Eugenia Lary Memorial Slalom, Feb. 15. A race clinic will be held Saturday. Luggi Foeger, ski school director will set the course sponsored by the Palo Alto Ski Club.

The Northern California and Nevada Winter Sports Writers will sponsor a North-South race this year to be held at Ski Incline April 4 - 5. This will be an invitational event with top racers from the North competing against top racers from the South. Always a fun feud.

A National Skiers Action Board met at Aspen Highlands in December and will test some of the suggestions this ski season and if they work out, will be adopted in some areas next season.

1. A coupon book system of ticketing with varying numbers of coupons required at each lift which would complement the daily lift pass.

2. Provide a morning ticket which is ideal for those leaving an area at midday.

A recommendation that large maps of runs be placed at the top of lifts.

Heavenly Valley held the FWSA Junior point slalom meet last weekend with the following results: Saturday, Juergen Launspach, Mammoth, 98.5; Dan McFarlane, Sugar Bowl, 99.5; Dave Mitchell, Mt. Rose, 102.0; Katy Morning, Mammoth, 87.2; Heidi Holmes, Mammoth, 87.7; Janet Turner, China Peak, 88.0.

Sunday, Joe Bryan, Heavenly Valley, 110.0; Bruce Birimisa, Shasta, 112.2; Lester Keller, Mammoth, 112.7; girls, Katy Morning, 85.1; Janet Turner, 85.3; Kaki Mackinlay, Heavenly Valley, 87.6.

Local skiers who have had fun up at Boreal Ridge on Friday afternoons recently are: Rex Anderson and his wife; Ida Clatterbuck, Felecia Lomax, Norma Russell, Adelle deRyk, Gauby Schwartz, Mr. Ulicki and Debbie Wurst who was out teaching the little tykes.

It's great to see more and more locals taking advantage of the wonderful ski areas we have within easy reach.

Kings Beach PTA To Offer Program

The Teacher-Parent Association of the Kings Beach School will present a speaker and a musical program at the school February 19 beginning at 8p.m.

The speaker will discuss the upcoming bond election February 24 and the elementary school band will join with the North Tahoe community choir to offer musical entertainment.

Local Skiers Score High At Alpine Meadows Races

Three local skiers earned gold medals Sunday at Alpine Meadow's NASTAR race by completing the giant slalom course close to the pacesetter's time.

John Ericson, Tahoe City (36.99), Randy Austin, Tahoe Vista (37.92), and Arthur Thiede, Kings Beach (39.53) had times closest to the pacesetter's time of 35.2 seconds.

The pacesetter was Jorg Dutschke, a ski instructor at Alpine Meadows.

Winner of a silver medal and his time was Peter Hodgkins, Tahoma (42.63) and Robert Lahde, Tahoe City (48.89) won a bronze medal.

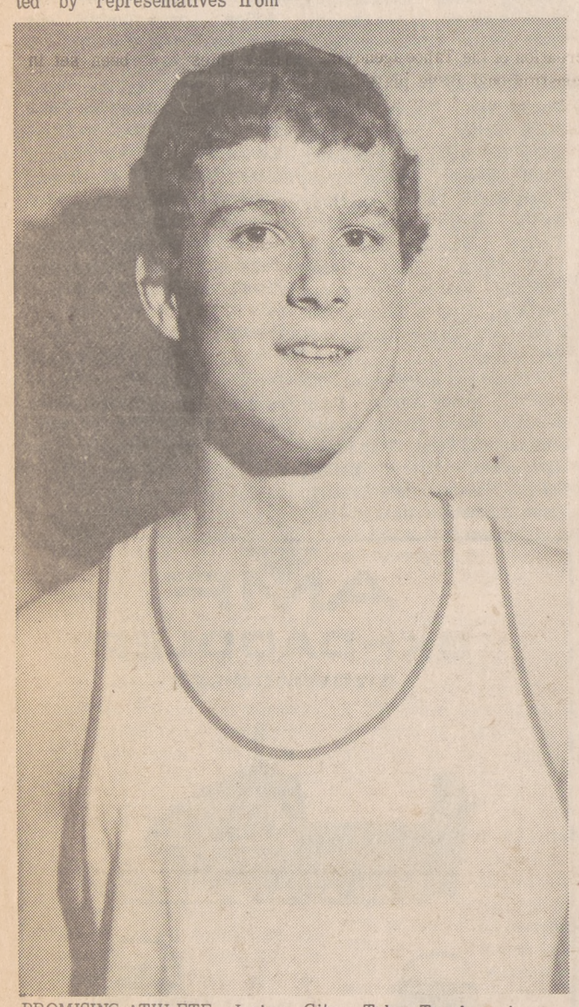

Second Meeting For New Council

The newly-formed North Lake Tahoe Area Community Council will meet Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Tahoe City Community Center.

Emphasis of the group, created by representatives from civic and social groups under the leadership of Tahoe Sierra Junior Women's Club and the Greater North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce, will be benefits to youth in the area.

NASTAR WINNER - Debbie Wurst, 18, Donner Lake, captured third place and a silver medal in the NASTAR (National Standard Race) at Boreal Ridge recently with a time of 47.1 seconds through the flagged course. Miss Wurst, who is 1969-70 Miss Sierra, is a student at Tahoe-Truckee High School and is a part-time ski instructor at Boreal.

PROMISING ATHLETE - Junior Mark Wood is considered a good shooter and ball handler by his coach and next season promises to be a top player for the Wolverines. Wood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood, Tahoe City. Tahoe-Truckee is currently leading the Pioneer League and riding high in Northern California standings. - Sun Photo

NEWS FROM NORTH TAHOE PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

The $816,000 bid of the McKnight Construction Co. of Goleta has been recommended to Placer County supervisors for acceptance in Sewer Assessment District A52, which includes land between the Nevada state line and Chipmunk Avenue at Kings Beach. Engineers are Gillette, Harris, Duranceau and Associates of Yuba City. They have been working closely with directors of the North Tahoe Public Utility District. Bids were opened Jan. 20 in Auburn. The bid of Frontier Construction Co. was considerably lower than McKnight's but Frontier claimed an error of $100,000. Directors thought that Frontier could support its claim in court so recommended McKnight's second lowest bid rather than risk higher costs of new bids. Even though the McKnight bid is higher, engineers estimate that average lot assessments will remain at $1,850 and the figures on assessment notices received in the mail should not change. The assessment amount will include a lateral service line to the property owner's lot line, and he will have to bear the expense of laying a line from the lot line to his house.

Residents in SAD A52 benefit through $132,000 being paid by the North Tahoe PUD for district-wide capacity and $232,000 being paid by the Nevada gambling casinos in Washoe County Improvement District No. 1. Directors now are waiting for approval of a $202,000 grant from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration for aid on the trunk line portion of SAD A52. If this grant is received, the A52 share of the project will be $164,000, your utility district will pay $75,000, and the gambling clubs will pay $161,000. An application also is pending with the Economic Development Agency for a grant which would increase the federal government's share to 50 per cent on the trunk line portion. Higher costs in the McKnight bid of the trunk line portion of construction is allowing North Tahoe directors to apply for larger federal grants thus preventing an increase in lot assessments but maintaining a safe contingency fund.

The construction contract in SAD A52 will not be awarded until your directors have a signed agreement with the Nevada casinos and a commitment from the federal government for at least the FWPCA grant.

Directors on Feb. 3 again considered a merger with the Tahoe City PUD at the request of that district but reaffirmed their previous action of tabling the question until more information is available or there is more interest in the community or the board for considering a merger.

Tentative negotiations for purchase and development of the Brockway Golf Course into an 18-hole course is continuing. Feasibility studies have indicated the project would be successful if the district can arrange the financing. Bill Hull, Reno golf course consultant, has been hired to design an 18-hole course on the total 125 acres. With a down payment and initial development of nine more holes, a cash outlay of around $500,000 seems to be indicated. Directors Ben Ferrari and Bill Martin are working on the project with the Recreation Commission.

Tahoe Development: The Many Facets Of 'Ecology'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third installment in a series of articles on the past and future of development in the Lake Tahoe Basin.)

By JACK LIND
Special Sun Correspondent

One of the sternest critics of developers in the area, Nevada State senator, Chester Coe Swobe, R-Reno, a former assistant U.S. district attorney, acknowledges that conservation and ecology are "politically favorable" issues today (he says he has no other political ambitions at the moment than getting himself reelected next fall.)

Swobe likes to take credit for sponsoring or co-sponsoring more than 20 pieces of legislation aimed at preserving Lake Tahoe. He wrote most of the legislation that resulted in the bi-state compact.

At the moment, about a dozen developers are active in the area - or were prior to the so-called moratorium - but Sen. Swobe has been most critical of Boise Cascade Properties Inc., developers of Incline Village.

He plainly regards Boise as the villain at Tahoe, although it is not, by any means, the biggest developer at the lake, and despite substantial agreement among professional planners and land experts that Boise has been doing as good a job - or better - than any other developer at Lake Tahoe.

The object of Boise, he briskly avers, "is to make money and if you can do it quickly and more expeditiously, you can make more money."

Nobody has yet accused Boise of lacking the profit motive. Its parent company is a large diversified corporation listed on the New York Stock Exchange and it is quite well respected in financial circles.

Moreover, officials of the firm say that Boise has a substantial stake in the community and has a good deal more in mind than just making money.

No developer is immune to criticism - whether it be Boise or firms like Cascade Lake (no relationship to Boise,) Perini Land & Development Co., Southern Pacific Land Co., Kingswood Village or General American (one of the largest developers in the area). Some of it is deserved, some is not, according to most objective observers.

The complaints by conservationists against the developers range from generally careless working of land which, they claim, contributes to erosion and, ultimately, pollution of the lake; to more specific charges that indiscriminate cutting of trees changes the ecology and results in similar damage.

Some of their complaints seem to ignore the natural run-off into the basin as well as the belief, held by a good many soil experts (but not by all) that the soil in most parts of the lake basin is, if not sterile, at least not conducive to the growth of algae-feeding nutrients.

Vaughn Burlingham, project manager for Boise at Incline, offers one note of historic and ecological interest: according to best scientific data, the mountain range behind Incline and elsewhere around the basin was at one time, as much as 2,000 feet higher than it is today.

This means that there has been a staggering rate of steady, natural erosion of the peaks for thousands of years - and yet the lake is today one of the clearest, purest in the world.

Some conservationists were surprisingly soft-voiced in discussing his views for this series.

"We are trying to tell them (the agency people): 'It's your job. Go out and hire the best people available - imaginative people, scientifically informed people - and you come up with a plan that is better than ordinary. This is (no) ordinary situation.'

Perhaps equally surprisingly, most of the conservationists think the turning point has been reached and that things are looking up. Some even have high hopes that bickering will subside and everybody will start cooperating.

"You even see people (today) accepting ideas which just six months ago they considered foolish," says one conservationist. We are becoming more intelligent about (the lake and its problems).

"I don't think everybody will get completely together, but I think we can make progress. I think we are making progress," he said.

New Type Ecologist Sought For 1970s

DAVIS (AP) - Dr. Robert S. Loomis is trying to tie economics, sociology, engineering and biology into one bundle to come up with a new breed of scientist to carry out the environmental revolution demanded of the 1970s.

Loomis and a small group of associates already have turned the University of California campus at Davis - by tradition a quiet school emphasizing agriculture - into a national leader in ecological research.

Now, Loomis, director of the research-oriented Davis Institute of Ecology, is working to develop programs to introduce undergraduates to environmental problems and to develop a new science of ecology in the graduate division.

The undergraduate program - possibly a series of three or four courses or seminars - may be under way by fall and could involve a thousand or more students, he said.

The graduate program will take longer, and there are no plans to expand beyond the present graduate enrollment of 26 students next fall unless new funds are found.

"Somewhere in the scheme of things we need people who can look at the overall system of man and nature," Loomis said. "Every doctor, lawyer, engineer, planner, sociologist and politician we turn out of college ought to be exposed to some core notions about man and his relationship to the environment," Loomis added.

"We are trying to develop a new kind of researcher," he said of the graduate program. "Ecology has its origins in biology, and the core of our faculty - 50 per cent - is made up of biologists.'

"Ecology is the study of how living things interact," he explained. "The classical ecologist looked for a 'natural environment' undistrubed by man. The new ecology is concerned with man and his environment, and it considers man as part of the environment."

"Air and water pollution are straightforward, but land use is a big question. This is the new ecology," he said. "We must create a new discipline bringing together economics, sociology, engineering and biology."

Loomis said this means that the new ecology gives high priority to the involvement of social scientists. The institute has 45 faculty members from 18 departments involved in research projects.

They include regional planners, anthropologists, sociologists, engineers, lawyers, agricultural engineers, "and all these people call themselves ecologists," Loomis said.

Grand Jury Critical Of Placer Audit

AUBURN — Office operations of Earl Corin, treasurer-tax collector, have been criticized in the 1969 Placer County Grand Jury report.

The grand jury based its criticism on a special audit by Bartig, Basler and Ray, of Sacramento, that was recommended by the 1968 Grand Jury.

A letter with the audit report stated that because of a "lack of fiscal control, the firm was compelled to disclaim an independent accountant's opinion" on financial status of the county.

Corin, who last year was president of the National Association of County Treasurers and Finance Officers, told the grand jury most of his office's problems are caused by too small a staff and by a breakdown of communications with the data processing department.

The jury made four recommendations:

— Further investigation by the district attorney and grand jury.

— Introduction of state legislation to establish technical and/or professional qualifications for elected officials.

— Consolidation of Corin's office with another office or other offices.

— Creation of a county office of finance if legislative approval can be obtained because of the small population of Placer County.

Adult Cagers Battle It Out

Donaldson's Cafe and General American Development Corporation were victorious over Tahoe City World and the Gas Jockeys, respectively, in Truckee-Donner adult Basketball League games last Thursday night.

Leading scorer in the General American-Tahoe City match was Rich Beisler who piled up 19 points in the 59-38 contest. Lee Velasquez' 15 markers sparked the cafe quintet past the Gas Jockeys 69-35.

In action February 3, General American dumped the Gas Jockeys 58-52 in a well-matched game and Donaldsons defeated the Marauders 70-54. Joe de Arrieta dunked 22 points for Donaldson's and Toni Caputo scored 17 points for the Marauders.

THIRD DISTRICT—

SENATE REPORTS

By Sen. Stephen P. Teale

The Governor this week preprogram to the Legislature and finally grudgingly agreed to income tax withholding as one of the ways to finance it.

The Governor called the $6.48 billion spending program a "hold the line" document. I have advocated holding the line on state expenses for a long time, but I realize that it is not always as easy as the Governor makes it sound.

In recent years we have cut back in many years. Some of the Administration's so-called economies will end up in the long run costing more money than they were supposed to save.

But we have made program economies and we have, at the same time, created new programs to meet the changing needs of the people of California. We have instituted some property tax relief programs and more will be in the works this year. Despite the economies and the elimination of outdated or unnecessary programs, the cost of government has continued to grow.

Partly due to inflation, partly due to a slowdown in the economy and high interest rates caused by inflationary brakes applied by the Federal Government, the State of California is facing one of the biggest cash flow problems in its history.

The State has regularly made ing to tide over the General Fund during the period when General Fund payments are due and income tax revenue comes in. But this year, to keep bond-financed programs like the State Water Project moving, the State has run out of places to borrow.

Despite warnings for the past three years that State was losing millions of dollars annually from people who worked in the state but failed to pay taxes, and despite the warnings that it would greatly help the State's cash flow problems, the Governor has adamantly refused to consider tax withholding.

It is my contention that if the Governor had not been making so many headlines about having his feet in concrete or burning his feet with a hot iron to convince him to change his position on withholding, the State of California would be in a much better financial condition today.

I have favored the withholding concept not because I like to see more money taken out of people's pay checks, but because I feit it would catch all taxes, thus putting the tax load on an equal basis and, at the same time, aiding the State's cash flow problems.

The Governor has opposed withholding in the past because he said he felt "taxes should hurt." In the past three years everyone has certainly felt the pain.

I feel the pain could have been eased if we had withholding three years ago instead of now when we are in a big financial bind. It will be interesting in the coming months to see how the rest of the Legislature reacts to this budget and revenue plan.

Snowtravelers Plan Meeting

A meeting of the North Tahoe Snowtravelers Snowmobile Club has been scheduled for February 18 at the fish and game hatchery near Tahoe City beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served, according to Terry Hickman, fish and game warden for the North Tahoe area, and all are invited to attend.

Bray Notes Causes Of Agency, County Strife

POLLOCK PINES - "Internal county politics, fixed ideological positions" or resentment that the counties have been found wanting in administration at Lake Tahoe is the cause of differences among California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency and Placer and El Dorado counties, according to J. Allen Bray, chairman of the agency.

Speaking here before the El Dorado-Amador Chapter of the Society of American Foresters, Bray said the agency did not reject a moratorium on development at Lake Tahoe because it did not want one, but because it could not legally declare one.

Bray said the agency's hands were tied by a ruling from the California attorney general's office stating that the agency did not have the power to declare building moratorium.

Discussing a suit against the agency by El Dorado and Placer counties, Bray said legal counsel has advised him that the position of the two counties is not well taken.

The two counties have filed a suit to have the agency's power cut, claiming it exists in violation of both the United States and California Constitution.

He said during debate in the California legislature on the creation of the Tahoe agency the constitutional issue played no part. He added that the suit brought by the counties failed to shake solid support for the regional planning compact by the Congressional delegations of California and Nevada.

Johnson Sees An Increase In Resource Agency Funds

In spite of an austere budget, Department of Interior resource agency funds for next fiscal year should show an increase over the amounts appropriated for the current fiscal year.

A review of the budget presented to Congress last week reveals that the various agencies of the Interior Department can expect to spend about $17,193,000 in the 20 counties of the Second Congressional District during the 12 months period commencing next July 1st.

A breakdown of agencies, exclusive of the Bureau of Reclamation which was reported earlier, show these proposed budgets for fiscal 1971: Bureau of Land Management, $1,370,200; Geological Survey, $3,118,000; Bureau of Sports Fisheries, $1,661,181; National Park Service, $10,781,207; Bureau of Indian Affairs, $263,100.

The total for the Second District compares to about $16.4 million in the current fiscal year and $15.2 million in fiscal 1969.

Between now and the time appropriations hearings are held, commencing next month, I intend to study each of the proposals in depth, including a series of meetings with two agency officials in order to assure that the recommendations are adequate for the programs required for these agencies.

Lake Tahoe Water Spill Is Increased

RENO - Releases from Lake Tahoe have been inscreased and may remain high for about two months to prevent lake levels from inching up to agreed maximum elevation.

Truckee Basin Water Committee authorized outflow of 1,800 cubic feet of water per second from the previous release of 1,200 cfs. By the time the outlet gates were adjusted Wednesday, Claude Dukes, federal watermaster, was dumping 1,804 cgs into the Truckee River at Tahoe City.

Normal winter Tahoe releases are only 50 cfs necessary to maintain the fishery immediately below outlet gates.

Agreed maximum elevation of the mile-high lake is 6,229.1 feet above sea level. Wednesday's elevation was measured at 6228.76 feet. The committee wants it down to 6,228 feet by April 1. A foot on the surface of Tahoe holds enough water to cover 120,000 acres one foot deep.

Dukes said the channel below Tahoe City can carry that amount of water, but input of Deer Creek and Squaw Creek plus several other smaller tributaries has increased the river volume to the point where some river bank damage will occur.

Colder weather has reduced the possibility of downstream Truckee flooding in the Reno area, but Dukes isn't taking any chances on another rain storm. He is releasing 670 cfs from Placer Creek Reservoir to pull it down below its minimum flood control pool of enough water to cover 10,000 acres one foot deep. Placer has a capacity of 30,000 acre feet.

Boca Reservoir is being spilled above the juncture of Little Truckee River and the main river channel. Releases amount to 186 cfs with storage at 27,918 acre feet of the 40,800-acre-foot capacity.

Nearly-completed Stampede Dam on the Little Truckee four miles above Boca now holds 56,000 acre feet and presently is a significant flood control structure. Crews are finishing outlet works and it is physically impossible to get water out except over the spillway until outlet gates have been set in place.

But, there is not a threat of water climbing that high.

All of the water Dukes is dumping from Tahoe and downstream flood control reservoirs is making its way to receding Pyramid Lake, the big desert lake at the terminus of the Truckee. Dukes estimated more than 10,000 acre feet a day has been flowing into Pyramid since Jan. 22.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot Shots

By BETTY LAYTON

Two events down and one to go, March 7 and 8, the 9th Annual Dog Sled Races. The push is on to put out a program and the committee is soliciting ads. We're optimistic that there will be snow on the Truckee-Tahoe Airport by that date. However, we were very fortunate to have good weather, snow, and the fine cooperation of the Squaw Valley Land and Livestock Company, the Papoose Ski Area, and the Carson-Tahoe Rents to allow the chambers to stage the 5th Annual Snowmobile Races this past weekend, in the Squaw Valley meadows.

There was a large crowd that witnessed the races and the snowmobilers proved to be a hale and hearty group of athletes. Everyone saw one driver, thrown off his machine, being run over by at least three machines, yet after receiving a little first aid was able to attend the big awards dinner Saturday night at the Crystal Bay Club, and race the next day.

This year the races were sanctioned by the United States Snowmobile Association and they promote safety and organization. We wouldn't say that we qualified 100 per cent on the latter but everyone that donated their time for two and three days were greatly loved by the chambers. Jim Emerick had to take over the chairmanship after Dan Rose landed in the hospital with a back injury and he had tremendous assistance for the two days from Terry Hickman, R. G. Gautsche, Dr. Art Benson, Howard Atkins, Gene Thompkins, Herb Crenshaw, Ted Hoerth, Joel Shouse, Arthur Wood, Joe Aguera, Ray Huston, Mel Mcallister, Don Henninger and Les Gear, and Carl Briggs who manned the Long Branch Saloon for the thirsty spectators.

Those who assisted with the registration and trophies were Elrose Louderback, Chris Christy, Bernie Henninger, Pat Emerick, Pat Geary and Mickey Badiali. Kings Castle loaned us many bales of hay and donated a beautiful over-all trophy to the guy with the most points received in the modified class. Norm Saylor of Donner Ski Resort easily won with 52 points on the basis of 8 points received for each win, 6 points for second, etc.

It was too bad that the widely publicized race between the honorary judges, Professor John James, Steve Atkins, and Ted Dawson with PR man Jerry Johnston never came off, but the speed accelerated around the track was so great there was not the time nor the bodies present at the right time to stage it. However, a Carson-Tahoe Rents snowmobile pulling two ski instructors from Papoose Ski Area put on quite a show squeezed between the drag and sprint events. There were two fellows, Ferd Koch and Gene Markwardt from the ATUV's Association, who worked for three days with their all terrain utility vehicle to keep the track in shape under the warming sun's rays. There were numerous USSA officials and members of the North Tahoe Snowtravelers Club who assisted. The Tahoe-Truckee Lumber Co. Chuck Conway, and Vail Associates helped too. It is tough to get the names of all the many devoted volunteers who helped to make this the most successful snowmobile race yet held at North Shore. Scout Troops 266 and 127 did a community service in selling booster buttons to earn some money for their troops.

You can buy your reserved seat tickets for the Kings Castle races scheduled for later this month at the chamber office.

The members of the chamber economic development committee met Wednesday at the Four Seasons to outline the responsibilities of the members to complete their study report of the area. New members added to the committee are Jack Sheehan, Professor John James, Bob Rapida, Les Edinberg and Tom Llewelyn. Other members present were Bob Daneri, Gardner Mein, Gordon Reddall, chairman Cortlandt Parker and Bill Layton. Some of the members will be attending a meeting of the Placer County Economic Development Committee in Auburn Monday night the 9th.

For the doubting persons in need of convincing about the coming school bond election, a trip through the Tahoe Lake School in Tahoe City is suggested. The rooms are bulging with students and there is a crying need for expansion. The thinking person can't possibly turn his back to the needs of this growing community. Vote yes February 24.

Experts Report State In Danger

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A highly select panel of experts has bluntly told Gov. Reagan and legislators "Our beautiful state is in severe danger of being destroyed as a desirable place to live."

In fact, the admittedly pessimistic group declares, "It is even questionable whether major portions of the state will be capable of supporting tolerable human life within several more decades."

The comments came Thursday in a progress report by the Environmental Quality Study Council, established by the legislature in 1968. Members were named by the governor and legislators and included lawyers, professors, businessmen and high-ranking state officials.

The group has held public hearings and plans more. In fact, it recommended that its life be extended for a year past the original expiration date next year.

The group produced a series of recommendations to fight air, water, noise and land pollution - some on an emergency basis. Included were some of the most far - reaching proposals ever made to cope with the decline in the environment.

For instance, the council's land use committee - with the whole council in support - declared: "The state of California must play an increasing role in dealing with population growth - hopefully diminshed - in such a way so as not to destroy California's environmental quality. There is an urgent need for the immediate adoption in principle of a population distribution policy."

The word "urgent" was underlined.

Sewer Projects Given Conditional Approval

Expansion of the Secline Street pumping station in Kings Beach and construction of a 6,000-foot force line along the shore of Lake Tahoe by the North Tahoe Public Utility District received conditional approval Wednesday from the Technical Advisory Committee of the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

Committee members were concerned with possible pollution of the lake from excavation of ditches for the force line, 1,500 feet of which will be laid along the high water maker.

Conditions of the approval presented to NTPUD were that the proposal be reviewed by Fred McLaren of Lahontan Water Quality Control Board, that the district have clear title to all land involved, that the project specifications contain erosion control provisions and that the district comply with any requirements set by the Department of Fish and Game.

McLaren pointed out to committee members that his board was witholding $5,000 in federal fund from NTPUD and the Tahoe City PUD because of their failure to construct a joint sewerage disposal system two miles north of Tahoe City at a volcanic cinder cone according to the original specifications.

The situation is expected to be corrected by the contractor in the spring.

Tom Llewellyn, general manager of NTPUD, noted that the Secline pumping station was built in 1952 and designed to handle 800,000 gallons of effluent per day. The expanded station will be able to pump 3.2 million gallons per day.

The project should be completed by this spring or fall, Llewellyn noted, as the present pumping station is "hanging together with thin thread."

Llewellyn estimated that work on the cast-iron force line could be completed quickly in that the trench will be dug four feet deep in relatively sandy soil.

And clay or other material unearthed by the contractors would be dumped outside of the basin, Llewellyn noted, to preclude any possible pollution of the lake.

In other action the TAC:

- discussed the March 4 formation meeting of a 17-member Compact Advisory Planning Commission to the TRPA. Representation would include the the planning and sanitation directors of the several counties of the bi-state lake area, the executive director of LWQCB, and the executive director of CTRPA. Four lay personnel, any resident of the basin not employed by one of the participating governments, also will be seated on the commission.

- agreed to obtain advice on the ecological effects of the undergrounding of utility lines.

Four Seasons Resort Begins Expansion Work

The Four Seasons at Lake Tahoe, newest sun and ski resort in Northern California's High Sierras, has embarked on the expansion and beautification program announced by its new consortium of owners who took over the former Tahoe Alumni Center and surrounding area in October.

The Four Seasons Lodge now offers accommodations, dining, a new cocktail lounge, a free ski area for house guests (including the Granlibakken ski hill), convention facilities and year-round recreation.

The dining room at the Four Seasons is now in the hands of Richard Anderson, veteran chef who has presided over the kitchens of many outstanding restaurants in America.

Court Cases In Truckee

The following cases were heard and adjudicated by F. W. Wilson, judge of the Truckee Justice Court:

Michael M. Florence of North Highlands, possession of a concealed weapon in a vehicle without a license, fined $35.

Stanley Goodin of Reno, speeding, fined $24.

Victor Peterson of Roseville, impeding snow removal, fined $10.

James Dimaria of Reno, no chains in a chain control zone, tried in abstentia, fined $19.

Lawrence Lauer of Sacramento, unsafe lane change, fined $24.

Public Agencies Blamed For Subdivision Upsurge

An upsurge in the construction of recreational subdivisions in the Sierras has resulted from the failure of public agencies to keep pace with the demand for recreation areas.

Speaking before directors of the Nevada County Chamber of Commerce in Nevada City, planning consultant J. F. Barber Jr. pointed out that many Tahoe residents may be "priced out of their own homes" and predicted that "bedroom communities" will grow in the Truckee and Martis Valley Areas.

Barber, former Placer County planning director, in a review of the $8.5 million Glenshire project of General American Development Corp. near Truckee, noted that the subdivision will include $700,000 worth of recreation facilities and 500 acres of "greenbelt" areas. He conceded, however, much of the open-space land is in sites where homes cannot be constructed.

"There is no reason these things (recreational facilities) should cost the county money if they are done right," Barber declared.

The planner said there is potential for a 50-60 acre regional shopping center in the Truckee area, space for which is lacking in the North Tahoe region.

John Hemler, a chamber director from Truckee, warned that his area is overrun with speculative projects. He claimed the Ponderosa Palisades and Sierra Meadows projects contain many lots and few homes, and require expensive county services.

Auto Mishaps Injure Three

Three North Lake Tahoe men were injured in automobile accidents last Saturday.

Dr. Arnold Stevens, 64, of Carnelian Bay was taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital by Draney Ambulance after he was hit while walking on Highway 28 in Carnelian Bay. He was admitted to the hospital and discharged on Sunday.

Driver of the vehicle which struck Dr. Stevens was Paul Joseph Morgan, 36, of Cupertino. Morgan was not cited due to the investigating officer's belief that he had done everything possible to avoid the accident. The incident occurred at 6:55 p.m.

Leo H. Putnam, 22, and Richard Campbell, 23, both of Tahoe City, sustained injuries when Putnam apparently fell asleep at the wheel and the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve on Highway 28 near Pino Grande. The vehicle struck a brick wall and power pole before coming to rest down an embankment.

Both victims in the 12:30 a.m. single-car accident were examined and released from Tahoe Forest Hospital.

AVALANCHE, BEWARE - Every morning the Alpine Meadows Ski Patrol check potential avalanche areas with skis and explosives to release loose snow and make it safe for skiers. STANDING ROOM ONLY - Above capacity enrollment at Tahoe Lake Elementary School in Tahoe City has, according to principal Darrell Smith, forced "using rooms for classrooms that shouldn't be used." "We have just plain run out of space," he remarked. The music instructor has even had to teach students one at a time in a closet. Pictured is teacher Bonnie Keating's reading class. New State Law Forces Hike In Bond Interest

Where's that $1 million we thought we had?

That's what the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District board hopes to find out in the affirmative when it resubmits a bond issue to the people because of an act of the California Legislature authorizing an increase in school bond interest rates from five to seven per cent.

Originally, the money was part of a $2,760,000 bond issue approved by the voters in April 1963. The bonds were to have been for construction of the Rideout School on the West Shore and would have been sold to the Bank of America at the five per cent rate had the Legislature not acted to raise the interest rates.

The school board had proceeded with construction plans for the school because of the $1 million in bonds authorized but not spent. Grading of the elementary school site was completed in January, plans and specifications drawn by the architect and approved by the state of California.

Enrollment at the new elementary school north of Homewood is expecting to be 250 to 300 student at the beginning. Plans call for eight classrooms, a kindergarten room, a cafeteria, a library resource center, a gymnasium and multi-purpose room and administrative offices.

As soon as the construction money is available, the district will be able to call for bids, award the contract and begin construction.

The district still has $181,000 in its capital improvements fund, left over from the last bonds sold. By law, this money cannot be used for any expenses other than capital improvements.

Jack deRyk, president of the school board, noted that at present there is no organized opposition to the bond issue to relieve overcrowding in district schools.

Presently the district has an assessed valuation of $79 million, a 300 per cent increase in the last 10 years.

Maximum legal bonded indebtedness for the district set by state law is $7,916,730. Outstanding bonds for the district totaled $2,758,000 as of June 30, 1969.

To better inform the communities in the North Tahoe area about the urgent need to approve the bond sale, open forums have been scheduled.

On February 17 a forum will be held in the multipurpose room of the Truckee Elementary School beginning at 8 p.m. A panel consisting of Dr. William Donnelly, Jack Houlgate, and Jack deRyk, will present their views on the issue.

The same type of public forum is scheduled at Tahoe City February 18 and at Kings Beach February 19.

Board Adopts New Road Standards

An interim set of road standards based on traffic counts and soil conditions was adopted by the Nevada County Board of Supervisors recently.

Public Works Director Harry Hider emphasized that further standards are being prepared, but the material adopted this week "shows the county's philosophy."

Basically, the change gets the county away from a fixed policy of requiring six inches of base and two inches of pavement as the norm.

"That did not take into account variations in soil," Hider told the board. "In rock, you don't need that much; in clay, you need more."

This aspect of the new policy is called the "R value" - the resistance value of the subgrade soil.

The "R value," together with the average daily traffic projected for a particular road, will determine how deep and how wide that road should be.

"The higher the traffic index and the lower the resistance value of the soil, the greater the thickness of the section," Hider explained.

An exhibit accompanying the resolution adopted by the board starts with an average daily traffic county of 250 vehicles, which would require a 22-foot road width.

Traffic counts from 1,000 daily vehicles to 7,500 would require 24-foot road widths.

When traffic count reaches 10,000 a 48-foot road width and four lanes would be required.

At a traffic count of 25,000 cars per day, the road width could be as much as 72 feet.

Geometric designs and structural sections would have to be designed for a 20-year design period.

Sponsored by members of the Assumption Catholic Guild, tickets will be available at the door for $3.50 per person.

Civil Air Patrol Cadets Pass Test

Frank Lawson, commander of the Truckee squadron of the Nevada wing of the Civil Air Patrol, recently announced the results of achievement tests taken by members of the local CAP unit.

Pat Northrop, Tahoe City, was given a "Dawning of the Space Age and General Billy Mitchell" leadership award and will be given solo flight training for her efforts.

Cadets passing the "Power for Aircraft" exam were: Julie Sterling, Kings Beach; Ruth Sterling, Kings Beach; Shaun Bryant, Tahoe City; and George Heise, Truckee.

Successfully completing the "Curry Achievement" test were: Shamon Thelander, Tahoe City; Bruce Cady, Truckee; and Kerry Heise, Truckee.

Lawson also revealed the General American Development Corporation has offered to provide all needed snow equipment for any rescue work the unit attempts.

DUMP IT AT DONNER - Sportsmen and Tahoe area residents alike are responsible for this collection of garbage found along a 150-foot stretch of Donner Lake shoreline. Historical Society To View Films

Films explaining ancient Egyptian and Peruvian cultures will be shown at the February 19 meeting of Truckee-Donner Historical Society.

President Roy Baker notes that the meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Nevada County building on Donner Pass Road.

Tickets for the world premiere of the play "Donner" will be available through the historical Society and the Emigrant Trail Curio Shop. Performances will be held March 1, 4, 6, 7, 10 and 13 at the University of California at Davis.

The executive council of the society met last Thursday evening at the Tahoe-Truckee High School library to discuss the remodeling of the old Truckee Jail.

SKIING AT TWIN PEAKS - Located near Alpine Meadows, the Twin Peaks Ski Area boasts excellent skiing for advanced and beginning "schussers" and a view of Lake Tahoe in the distance. The winter skiing season in the Tahoe area usually opens in late November and last year continued almost until the summer arrives. This year has been somewhat different.

Nixon Approves Martis Dam Funds

Congressman Harold "Bizz" Johnson, representing the Central Sierra Area, last week revealed that the $2,400,000 recommended for the Martis Creek Project will permit the award of the main dam contract this spring.

The funds were included in the Army Corps of Engineers budget request submitted to Congress by President Richard Nixon.

What's Your Number?

Don't look now, but what's your automobile license plate number? Could you give the police a complete description of your vehicle if it was stolen today?

Department of Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens says "It's surprising how many people can't remember the license plate number of their car, truck, trailer or motorcycle when they need it most - not to mention the vehicle's engine or chassis identification number.

"This information is on the card which is handed or mailed back to every owner when he renews his 1970 registration," Cozens said.

"If you want to keep the card in the glove compartment of your vechicle, that's fine, but how about copying down the same information on a piece of paper to be carried in your purse or wallet or kept in a safe place at home?"

DA Admits Criticism Of Court

William Raggio, Washoe County district attorney, has admitted to Nevada Supreme Court that he made critical statements about the court granting a "penalty hearing" for Thomas Lee Bean, Reno, who is a condemned slayer.

Raggio said the decision was "the most shocking and outrageous in the history of the Nevada Supreme Court."

The court had ordered the Nevada Bar Association to report by Feb. 25 if statements attributed to Raggio actually were made by the district attorney. It said if Raggio were willing to admit within the next five days he made the statements, the court then would decide what action might be appropriate.

All five justices signed the order even though two of them filed a minority opinion objecting to the penalty hearing. Such an order never before has been made in Nevada judicial history.

The court ordered a new jury called for a penalty hearing to determine anew Bean's penalty. It did not change the guilty verdict.

Raggio said there was no precedent for the decision and Nevada law makes no provision for a penalty hearing.

In 1965, former Clark County Dist. Atty. Edward G. Marshall was barred from practicing law for one year after he issued a statement even more critical of the court after it overturned a Las Vegas murder conviction.

The court last Tuesday in a 3–2 decision voided the death penalty, invoking the U.S. Supreme Court's Witherspoon ruling, saying potential jurors in the Bean trial were excluded because they objected to the death penalty.

Bean, then 18, was condemned to death by a District Court jury for the 1963 mutilation slaying of one–time British Olympic skier Sonja McCaskie in her Reno apartment.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter to the editor was written to the Nevada State Journal regarding possible censoring by the Nevada Supreme Court of Washoe County Dist. Atty. William Raggio for remarks made about a recent decision of the court.)

Editor, Incline Village News:

It is illuminating to learn that the justices of the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada are human -- at least to the extent that they cannot accept criticism. The court's attempt Thursday to intimidate and silence Washoe County District Attorney William J. Raggio is proof that our justices are only men, and little men at that.

Whether or not one agrees with Mr. Raggio's condemnation is immaterial. Even whether or not it is just is immaterial. (As one who, as a newsman, unfortunately is quite familiar with the McCaskie case, I feel his comments were admirably controlled.)

The point is that Mr. Raggio is a public servant, voicing his opinion on a matter of concern to his office and to the public. He should be heard on moral grounds alone. Beyond that he has the constitutional right to comment on public officials, just as do newspaper editors and ordinary taxpayers.

For the justices of the Supreme Court to even appear to attempt to muzzle criticism of their actions is unthinkable. That is the method of the totalitarian left and totalitarian right that has no place in our democracy, certainly not in our state's judiciary.

I applaud Reno Police Chief Elmer Briscoe for having the courage to support Mr. Raggio (Nevada State Journal, Feb. 5). I hope that the newsmen who will be questioned by the State Bar Association will have the courage to obey their professional ethics and refuse to testify. Mr. Raggio, likely, will tell the court that he said what he said, but newsmen should resist, even at the expense of contempt citations, any effort to turn them into tools of the Supreme Court or state bar.

Sincerely,
Zane S. Miles

Highlanders Split Cage Tilts

After a late rally fell short in Friday's home court loss to Lovelock, the Incline High varsity cut the big guns loose early Saturday night at Gerlach as the Highlanders exploded in the second quarter to notch a 67-58 victory.

With the 58-49 loss to Lovelock and the win over Gerlach, the locals now sport a 3-8 record in Western "A League play.

In Friday's action, Lovelock grabbed an 18-12 first quarter lead and then held the Highlanders to only four second period points while topping in 16. Incline outscored the visitors 35-24 in the second half but the damage had been done.

Greg Gorman hit a game-high total of 19 points and Bill Schwab added 11 in the losing effort.

Saturday night it was a turnabout tilt as Incline led 14-11 going into the second quarter and then out-gunned Gerlach 19-9 in the second stanza. Gerlach hit 38 points to Incline's 34 in the second half, but this time the Highlanders held the edge.

Four Highlanders scored in double figures. Schwab paced Incline with 17 points, while Randy Muntifering added 13 and Gorman and Larry Hume hit 11 each.

In a very close contest, Bob Baderscher's bulldoing Rams out-skied Don Follansbee's flying Trojans by 143-130.

In the Ram's cause, Monti Calvert, Clark Bannister, Bob Badertscher, Al Kuckhoff and Wayne Veeneman were swiftest. Top Trojan speedsters were Ken Poohachoff, Chappie Wentworth Carol Rogers, Chris Kuckhoff and Debbie Hancock.

Overall best racers were: Monty Calvert, 59.1; Kenny Poohachoff, 59.2; Clark Bannister, 61.7; Ed Gurney, 62.5; Chappie Wentworth, 63.5; Carol Rogers, 64.5; Bert Jensen, 66.1; Mike Malley, 66.4; Chris Kuckhoff, 66.8; Bob Badertscher, 68.0.

Team standings are Cougars, won 3, lost 1; Rams 2-2; T Trojans, 2-2; Devils 1-3.

A post race-postmortem party was enjoyed by all the racers, the "quick" and the "lead" at the Kuckhoff's home. The final races will be held in March and will pit the Courgars versus the Rams and the Trojans versus the Devils for the Cosmic championship.

TO SPEAK - Dean Miller, who has devoted his life to athletics and physical fitness, will be the speaker at the Incline Booster Club luncheon Friday, Feb. 20. The event will be held at 11:30 at Crystal Bay Club. Miller is the inventor of the famed Exer-Genie adopted by NASA for its space travelers.

THEY RAISED THE RAFTERS – Highlander "cheerleaders," resplendent in scotch plaid, mini-skirted uniforms, led a wildly cheering student body Friday at a pre-game basketball game rally where all the players were girls! Cheerleaders were members of Incline High School varsity and junior varsity basketball teams. See additional pictures page 2. –Sun Photo.

Planner Will Head Environmental Group

Appointment of Incliner Raymon M. Smith, long-time land planner and consultant, as chairman of the American Right-of-Way Association's newest local committee has been announced by R. E. Hansen, president of the Sierra Nevada Chapter.

Paralleling the national association's organization plan, the new committee will be known as the Right-of-Way Environmental Committee, Hansen said.

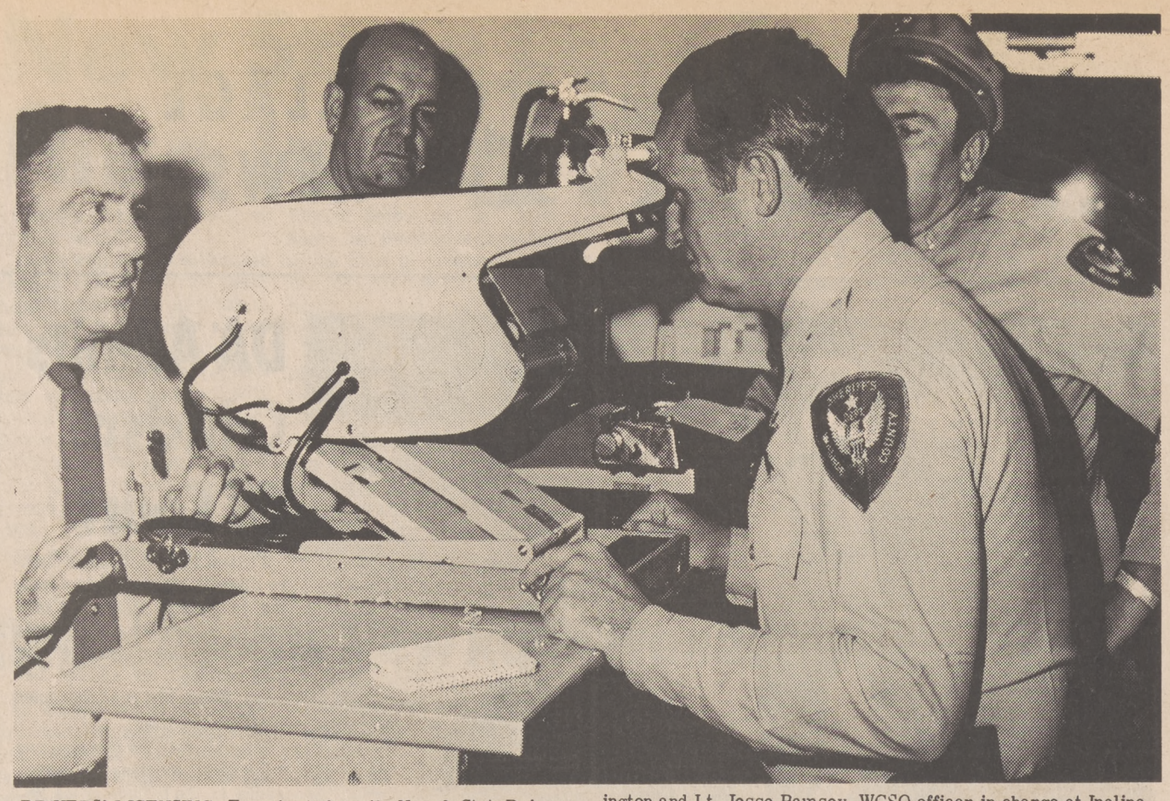

Mission of the group will be, in the language of the national organization, to identify environmental elements which will affect facilities for which rights-of-way are acquired, to suggest the means for giving full weight to those elements, to foster wider interest in environmental considerations, and generally to indicate how the association can better serve environmental goals in connection with right-of-way environment.

The well known land planner, who only recently has completed the Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency General Plan, has been a full member of the American Righ-of-Way Association for two decades.

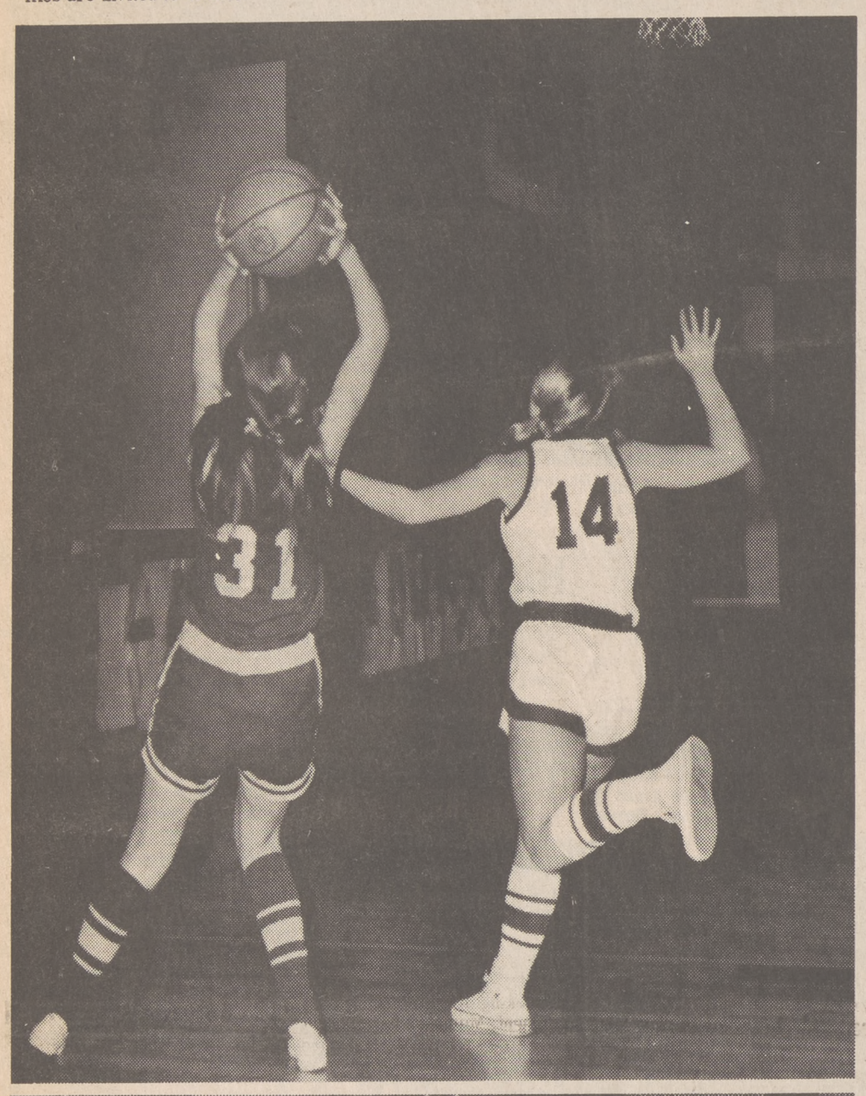

Naughty Word?

NEW YORK (AP) - Six persons were arrested for stenciling "ecology" in bright yellow paint on a sidewalk in front of the United Nations building.

Leonard Flax, 41, an art supplies dealer of Bayonne, N. J., said his group wanted the world to realize the need for "preserving the balance of nature."

DRIVERS' LICENSING - Examiners from the Nevada State Drivers License Division in Carson City, complete the eye testing machine, typewriter, forms and applications, demonstrate equipment at the end of a busy Thursday last week at Incline Washoe County Sheriff's Office Substation. They are, from left, examiners Gary Eldridge and John Rebol with Incline Deputy Jim Worthington and Lt. Jesse Ramsey, WCSO officer in charge at Incline. Rebol said testing and servicing applications for Nevada drivers licenses here has tripled in the last four years. Last week, the examiners completed 29 applications. The drivers license division personnel are staffed at the Incline Sheriff's office on the first and third Thursday of each month from 9:30 a.m to 3:30 p.m. - Sun Photo

"ASTRONOMICAL" WIN - Incline High student body parctically raised the roof Friday afternoon at "the most successful rally ever" when "Incline" beat "Lovelock" by an "astronomical" (and highly debatable) score. Rules of the game were made up as the tilt progressed through four quarters. Players often piled up on the floor and a loose ball meant a free-for-all scramble. Several players skidded yards at a time on posterior or stomach when they couldn't run fast enough. Who were these over enthusiastic players? The Incline team was made up of varsity cheerleaders and songleaders while Lovelock was composed of junior varsity cheerleaders and songleaders all female and appropriately dressed in the regular teams' uniforms. Wild cheering came from the stands and sidelines where mini skirted cheerleaders proved to be legitimate members of the varsity and junior varsity basketball teams. It was (almost) more fun than a regular game - "They got carried away, it was wonderful," said referees Larry Borino and Carl Shaff.

Evans Resigns Press Duties At Harrah's

Resignation of Gene Evans, press relations director for Harrah's Club, was confirmed Friday by Charles G. Munson, vice president-marketing, for the club.

Evans, who has been a member of Harrah's public relations staff for 11 years, says he has no definite plans for the future but added that he is considering several possibilities.

Evans joined Harrah's in April 1959 when he was serving in the Nevada Assembly. He left the post of city editor of the Elko Daily Free Press to become affiliated with the casino.

He was majority floor leader of the Nevada Assembly during the 1959 and 1960 sessions.

Evans, 49, is a graduate of the University of Nevada, a World War II veteran during which he was wounded three times while fighting in the Pacific Theatre, former president of the Sierra Nevada Sportswriters and a member of the Reno Press Club.

Cougars, Rams Undefeated

The second Buddy Werner race last week at Ski Incline produced two undefeated teams, the Cougars and the Rams which both now stand 2 wins, O losses.

The Cougars were battled all the way by the Blue Devils before emerging victorious 160-137. The Rams had an easier time topping winless Trojans 160-123. The Trojans and the Devils now stand 0-2.

The second race was a short giant slalom over a tricky and sometimes icy course. "Lots of white pants and parkas after this race, though some excellent times were recorded," said coach John Roodhouse.

Leading the way was Craig Kuckhoff of the Devils with 23.1. Others in the top ten were Jon Knorpp, 23.3; Scott Bannister, 24.2; Kathy Cornforth 24.6; Chrissy Gurney, 25.0; Bab Badertscher, 25.6; Tim Troyan, 26.2; Jay Jensen, 26.7; Mel Wild, 28.3; Robin Shandler, 28.5.

Deacon Jones To Compete In Grand Prix

Another "big name in the sports world had officially entered the Kings Castle $50,000 Snowmobile Grand Prix VIP Celebrity Race.

He is David "Deacon" Jones, defensive end for the Los Angeles rams, joined the likes of Don Drysdale, John Brody and Rodger Ward as entrants in the race.

Jones, one of the most feared defensive ends in professional football, will drive a Ski-Doo in the special event Saturday, February 28.

The 260 pound, 6-5 all-pro will be competing in his first snowmobile race. However, if he is anything on a snowmobile like he is on the football field, then opposing drivers better be alert.

Jones joined the Rams in 1961 where he earned Rookie of the Year Honors and has since gained a reputation without peril in pro-football. He was named all-pro for four consecutive years (1965-68) and has participated in five straight pro-bowl games.

RIDES ON AIR CUSHION - Dubbed the "Spectar I" this all-terrain hovercraft glides easily over land and water, as was demonstrated recently at the Incline boat launching area near Kings Castle. The fun machine is distributed locally by Wholesale Equipment, Inc. Incline Village, according to John Dobbratz and Lois Swain, operators of the company, and sports a price tag of $2250. - Sun Photo

Automobile Registration Being Urged

Citations are being issued to motorists who have not obtained 1970 vehicle registrations, Nevada Department of Motor Vehicles reports.

Director James C. Bailey pointed out that Jan. 30 was the final date on which to get a 1970 registration sticker or license without additional monetary penalties of at least $6.

He urged delinquent motorists - and there probably are several thousand Nevadans in this category - to register their vehicles voluntarily before they are cited by law enforcement officers.

"Delinquent drivers are being cited," Bailey said, "and undoubtedly are facing an additional levy when they appear in traffice court to answer a charge of driving an improperly licensed vehicle."

Motorists who license their vehicles now for the year are paying at least $3 for late registration fee, plus a 10 per cent privilege tax of not less than $3 he noted.

CHAMPIONS TO PERFORM - Martin Hedrick, Sr., right, and his son, Martin Jr., 21, of Grass Valley, uncle and cousin of Incline's Vivian Hansen, will perform in a loggers' "Tournament of Champions" during the Sierra Cascade Logging Conference Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Reno Coliseum. The senior Hedrick, who has been competing since the age of 15, is California State Champion Logger for his prowess in all forms of logging competition. Martin Junior last year won the axe throwing finals. Both will enter the axe throwing and the younger man will also enter chokersetting competition in the tournament. There will also be a demonstration of climbing skills by a team of champion high climbers from Washington.

Incline's John Brevick, who is married and has one child, will drive a Polaris powered by 792 CC highly modified Polaris engine in the $50,000 Kings Castle Snowmobile Grand Prix. He's driving a Cal Neva Lodge entry.

The other Cal Neva entry, Merle Brennan of Reno, is also married and the father of five children. He is reigning Pacific Coast D production sports car champion and has raced practically everything in the auto world. He will be in a Polaris 600 powered by a modified 634 CC hirth engine. Fire Sirens have been hard hit this month - but not by fire and rescue activity.

President Ella Dolley - has been confined to St. Mary's Hospital in Reno where she underwent surgery. She's expected home this week - and nice to have you back, Ella.

Also on the ailing list, Vivian Hansen was in Tahoe Forest Hospital last week for examination and tests after admitting she hasn't been feeling up to par for some time. Glad to hear there's nothing too serious, Vivian.

Speaking of Vivian, her "logging" uncle and cousin the Martin Hedricks Sr. and Jr. who are competing in exhibitions during the logging conference in Reno, aren't the only ones in the family who are experts.

"It's a family affair," said Vivian's aunt who was at Incline last week. "Our three daughters often compete with their brother and father and I used to, also." The girls go in for such activities as sawing contests and log rolling among other competitive events.

"We've wanted to make our home here for a long time and now we've finally accomplished it," says Maurice Bidart who represents New York Life in this area.

Maurice's wife, Barbara, incidentally, is the daughter of Jack Sommers, manager of Cal Neva Lodge. And congratulations to Jack on having grandchildren Mike, Jeb and Ann around to keep the home fires burning high.

During the previous weekend they were joined by Anthony Gangi Jr. and children Rosalie and Val with houseguests Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Armann (he's a Los Gatos architect.

The Gangis entertained at dinner during the weekend for the Armanns and Incliners Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solomon and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Poulsen, for whom Armann is drawing up plans for a home here.

Congratulations to Audrey Anderson who received well-deserved honors at last week's Incline PTA meeting. She was presented a life membership in the Nevada Parent Teachers Association for being an outstanding member of the local group.

Audrey is our illustrious librarian for Incline Branch of the Washoe County Library which is located in the elementary school. As such, she is of inestimable value to parents, teachers and children.

Always gracious, Audrey has written the PTA a "thank you" note in which she gives credits to husband, Ed, "Who in 1964 . . . brought the Andersons to Incline Village to live;" to Betty Zenzic who "planted the seed" for establishing a branch library here; "and to such 'gardeners' as Janet Jones and Pat Kellogg, volunteers who have unselfishly given many hours of time."

In conclusion, Audrey writes, "It is a source of deep satisfaction to me to see that, in this so-called 'Age of Indifference', a library can still be a community asset which is appreciated by its residents."

Our hats are off to Audrey, to all those who have helped and to help and to a rapidly expanding facility that requires more and more shelves.

COOKS TASTE THE STEW - VFW 7077 member Noble Murray of Carson City dishes up buck stew for Roxanne Phillips, VFW Auxiliary senior vice president, and Stella Farrell, auxiliary chaplain, during annual post and auxiliary fund raising dinner. All had a hand in cooking the delicious dinner. Funds go toward the groups' projects, one of which is sick room equipment. Members have bought and have on hand hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches and other necessities for the ill which are available on loan to all members of the surrounding community when needed. - Sun Photo

Motorists Are Warned

Lt. Jesse Ramsey of the Incline Washoe County Sheriff Substation warns motorists that under the "implied consent" law the arresting officer must request a chemical test of the blood of any person arrested for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

He said officers are required to complete a statement form if the arrested person refuses the test and that such refusal means a six-months suspension of the driver's license.

The lieutenant further noted that officers must comply with this state regulation or be subject to disciplinary action.

'BEST IN THE AREA' - Some 20 members of the International Ski Lift Association from Austria, Germany and Switzerland agreed the "condition and grooming of Ski Incline was the best in the area by far" of any they had visited when they were here recently. The group is shown at Snowflake, atop Ski Incline during their visit. They visited Holiday Hill out of Los Angeles and at Lake Tahoe they were guests at Incline, Heavenly Valley, Sugar Bowl, Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows. After leaving the West they stopped in Utah, New York, New Hampshire, Vermont, Washington, D. C., and Virginia. The trip was sponsored by the association which announced a reciprocal trip for United States operators to go to Austria and Switzerland might be arranged if enough interest was shown.

Drug Bill Lauded

WASHINGTON - Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., described the omnibus drug bill passed by the Senate as "the most far reaching, responsible piece of legislation to deal with the realities of drug abuse in our nation."

Cannon said the bill provides the Justice Department with new legal tools to use against drug traffic and also brings several tranquilizers under the dangerous drug laws.

"The menace of drug abuse must be stopped," the senator declared. "Too many of our children are injuring themselves mentally as well as physically. Some are even dying - in their experiments with pills, pot, heroin injections and other forms of self abuse," he said.

Night Classes Start

A night class in beginning and intermediate sewing will start Thursday, Feb. 12, at Incline High School. Class will be held from 7 to 10 p.m.

Alice Marean, home economics teacher at the high school, will be the instructor. Mrs. Marean has had more than 15 years in adult education in the Reno schools prior to coming to Incline. The class will be of 10 weeks duration.

A night class in arts and crafts under Richard Kahn and another in business machines instructed by Larry Borino are also being planned with the time to be scheduled. Both instructors are teachers at Incline High.

Registration for all the classes may be made at the high school office or by contacting the instructors.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) - Audrey Hepburn's new son is named Luca Andrea Dotti.

Girl Wants Page Job

MIAMI (AP) - Using feminine logic, a bright-eyed 16-year-old blonde who wants to be a congressional page is telling 435 members of Congress they shouldn't hold her sex against her because "some of the greatest people in the world started out as girls."

Wendy Green, a high school junior who started her campaign at the top and resorted to letters to every congressman after President Nixon sidestepped the issue, has licked stamps and envelopes for two days to further her cause.

Securities Regulators Knocked

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The speaker was Bernard Cornfeld, 42, chairman of Investors Overseas Services, which manages $2.5 billion in assets, acquired mainly by selling mutual fund shares to Europeans and reinvesting in American stocks.

In this audience were more than 2,000 finance managers and businessmen, some of them representing the institutions, such as mutual and pension funds, that now account for about 50 per cent of trading on the N. Y. Stock Exchange.

The securities industry, he told them, was being attacked and weakened and made unprofitable by regulatory bodies. It was being denied the chance to make money by "a regulatory body that simply doesn't understand it. . ."

Is it difficult to make a living in the securities business? Take Cornfeld as an example. He began from scratch selling mutual funds to overseas American Servicemen in the 1950s but now sells only to foreigners. The money, reinvested in America, has helped Cornfeld to a fortune reputed to be $100 million.

"We had a cash flow last year of nearly one billion dollars," he told his audience at the annual Institutional Investor Conference. "By 1975, we expect to be managing some $15 billion . . . IOS now has over one million clients and we are currently adding about 50,000 new clients each month."

The primary attraction that Cornfeld offers his foreign clients is a chance to participate in the American economy, and his opportunity, it would seem by his growing client list, remains attractive. What, then, bothers Cornfeld?

A "powerful and possibly disastrous attack" is under way against the securities industry, he says. One that "could very well cripple and destroy its effectiveness." Specifically:

- The SEC dowesn't understand the business. "It has adopted the simple device of attacking virutally every sector of earnings in the securities business. . ."

- "In the first year of the new administration, we have seen government artificially drive the cost of money up to its highest level in American history. 'We have seen a new tax bill which will increase the capital gains tax, curtail the tax advantages of depreciation in real estate investment, has already eliminated investment tax credits and has essentially stripped fiscal policy of many of its built-in devices to stimulate the economy."

Huff Hopeful

FARMINGTON, W. Va. (AP) - Sam Huff, former star linebacker with the professional football New York Giants and Washington Redskins, is a candidate for Congress.

His weekend announcement that he would seek the Democratic nomination as U. S. representative from the 1st District of West Virginia was made at Farmington High School, where Huff was a football star before entering West Virginia University.

The incumbent Democrat Robert Mellohan, has filed for re-election.

Bugs Battled With Germs

SACRAMENTO (AP) - Under increasing pressure to find alternatives to chemcial pesticides, farmers and researchers are turning more and more to germ warfare, on the theory that if you can't kill the bugs you can at least make them too sick to eat.

In some cases, farmers actually go buy viruses or bacteria to spray on their crops. Some of these germs kill the pests outright but many others merely make them sick - too sick to eat and breed.

One store-bought strain of bacteria is now used to control the cabbage looper worm, said Allen B. Lemmon, the Agriculture Department's assistant director for plant industry.

In other cases, the farmers cannot buy germs but they can find ways to encourage those that are already present. In the case of the ordinary bollworm, says Lemmon, farmers look for dead bollworms which apparently have died of a virus, grind up the dead worms and scatter them around the field to spread the virus better among the other bollworms.

"It doesn't eradicate them," says Lemmon, "it just makes them so they're not so fat and happy,"

Lemmon said making the bugs sick affects them in several ways. Besides dulling their appetites for food and sex, it can stall them in one stage of development so they never complete their life cycles. Or if they do breed, it can reduce the number and virility of their offspring.

The use of viruses and bacteria is just the latest development in the biological control of pests as opposed to chemical control, he said.

Lemmon said the whole approach was begun in California around the turn of the century when citrus growers brought in ladybird beetles to control the "cottony cushion scale" on citrus trees.

Police, Teens Get Along

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) - "The main thing I learned," said the teen-age girl, "was that cops are human, too. They bleed just like everyone else."

Donna Evans, writing in her student newspaper at Pacifica High School, was telling how her views of law enforcement officers took a sudden flip-flop after she participated in a program called Code 7.

This is the radio message officers routinely give when they are lunching.

"I never liked cops and I thought I never would," said Donna. "Every time a cop even came near me I would get away from him fast because he was a cop."

But under the Code 7 program, Miss Evans rode along with a police officer on his regular patrol. She saw him pick up a stray cat and take it home to his wife; she observed him help an elderly woman with a flooding stopped-up toilet; and she saw him take abuse from both parties when he responded to a man-wife fight.

The program is unusual only in its comprehensiveness. It starts with grades 1-3 and carries on, in appropriate steps, through high school.

It began when Police Chief George P. Tielsch realized this burgeoning community in Orange County - the fastest growing part of Southern California - had turned up a significant statistic. Studies showed that half the city's 122,000 residents were young.

The chief said he also realized that there was a stereotype among the young about police officers.

His goal was to break it down and create a mutual respect between his officers and the youth of the community.

About 18 months ago, Dave Burn, 27, was named community relations officer.

Although Garden Grove has no ghettos as such, police were aware that teen - agers thought of themselves as a persecuted minority group.

The Code 7 concept began simply. Officers on the day shift took along their lunches and made it a point to eat with children at schools who also brought theirs.

"We got some real discussions going," Burn recalls. "They dealt with anything from police brutality, search and seizure to the wisdom of curfew laws."

Since then, the program has been expanded to regular classroom lectures and accompanying officers on patrol.

Burn said he soon learned that only one or two officers couldn't handle the situation.

This caused him to do some arm-twisting to get every patrolman into the program.

Burn mentioned one officer who had spent a Code 7 at a particular school.

A couple weeks later he was summoned to the school to break up a fight.

"The kids recognized him," said Burn. "He was flabbergasted. The cooperation was 100 per cent."

Is there a key to success?

"We don't moralize at all," said Burn, "because that just turns them off.

"We just pose some of the situations kids get into, or we talk about anything the kids want to discuss."

Poverty Said A Cause Of Crime

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Crime is the price the nation is paying for the poverty and social isolation of its minorities, says presidential counselor Daniel P. Moynihan.

Moynihan put the goal of ending those ills at the top of a list of priorities in a new national urban policy.

President Nixon's chief urban adviser unveiled the policy Thursday before a select meeting of nine mayors from medium-sized U.S. cities, the President and his Urban Affairs Council.

"If you want to get rid of crime, get rid of poverty and racial isolation," said Moynihan after the closed-door meeting. "And don't kid yourself, the correlation is absolute.

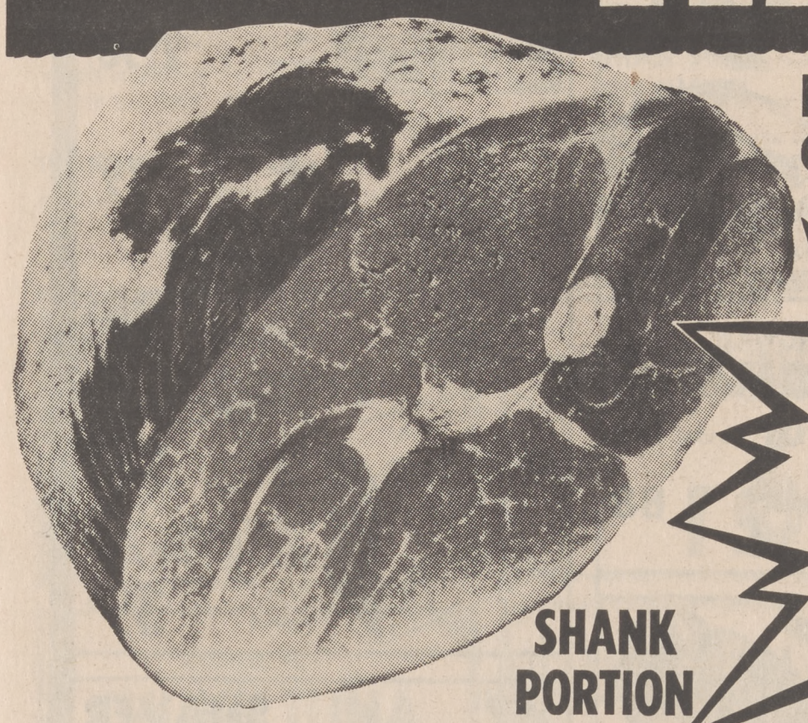

Asked whether Moynihan's views were shared by the President, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler replied, "I've never known the President and Dr. Moynihan to be too far apart in their points of view on these matters."

Moynihan said the statement represented present thinking within the administration and did not represent final conclusions.

After placing the elimination of poverty and racial isolation at the top of the list, Moynihan listed nine other goals:

- Restoring urban balance by seeking total development of metropolitan areas.
- Strengthening local government so it can become more efficient and meaningful to city dwellers.
- Restoring fiscal vitality to the cities by such means as the sharing of federal revenues which the Nixon administration has proposed.
- Equalizing public service in different government jurisdictions.
- Focusing special attention on the mass movement of people from the country-side to the city and from the city to the suburbs.
- Supporting state involvement in urban affairs.
- Developing a more efficient system for state, local and private involvement in meeting the goals the federal government hopes to achieve.
- Improving informational services available to the cities so that they can better gauge the current and future situation.
- Seeking ways to preserve the environment.

Summer Tour For Students Is Planned

A meeting to round up high school students for a summer tour of Europe will be held Thursday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at Incline High School.

Students and parents desiring more information about the tours are invited. Mr. and Mrs. Danford Schow of Cupertino will present highlights of a trip made last year.

Students already accepted to go on the 1970 tour include Cindy L. Howard, Leslee L. Mullard and Carolynn I. Smith, all of Incline Village. Area chaperons are teachers Miss Jane Conway of Incline and Mrs. Yvonne Hogan of Squaw Valley.

The tour is being sponsored by the International Cultural Exchange Schools, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Graphic Sign Shows Tunnel

Nevada's first graphic historical marker will be placed soon near the mouth of old Sutro Tunnel, it was announced by Eric Cronkhite, director of the state parks division.

Sponsored by the Julia Bulette Chapter of E Clampus Vitus, the marker will present a graphic profile of the famous tunnel from the Carson River Valley to Mount Davidson.

It will be placed in position near Highway 50 for convenience of tourists on a site to be selected by Michael J. Colletti, district highway engineer, and will be erected by highway personnel.

Location of the marker is so planned that Mount Davidson, the mouth of the tunnel, and the townsite of Sutro can be easily seen and identified with the information presented on the marker, according to Colletti.

Reno Racer To Drive Cal Neva Snowmobile

Merle Brennan, 42-year-old auto racing veteran from Reno, will put more than 22 years of experience on the circuit into a new test Feb. 25 - March 1 when he pilots a Polaris 600 for Cal Neva Lodge in the Kings Castle Snowmobile Grand Prix.

Brennan has been tinkering with cars for some 25 years, but his entry into the $50,000 event at Incline Village will be his first attempt at snowmobile racing.

Brennan was a 16-year-old Reno High School student when he built his first hot rod, a 1929 Model "A" roadster body on a 1932 Ford frame. It was powered by a V-8 flathead Ford engine. Brennan took his first crack at racing at the age of 19. He ran a Model "A" flathead-powered 1927 Model "T" body bolted to a Model "A" frame on a short dirt oval track on Dry Lake, north of the former Stead Airport out of Reno.

In 1947, Brennan got his first automotive oriented job - rebuilding engines. He opened his own service station in 1953.

He competed in the first hardtop stock car races in Reno, winning everything but the 25-lap main event. On July 15, 1953, he flipped his car on the 30th lap but still finished - and won.

Brennan got into the imported car business in 1954. He later opened his own imported car repair shop. Business was good and Brennan was able to build a bigger operation with Reno's Harry Banta and John Isbell who were racing a Cooper Climax rear-engined sports car. This was one of the first rear-engined machines on the American racing scene and Brennan served as chief mechanic on it.

In 1957, Brennan opened his first new car dealership, British Motors Limited. He sold the operation to Reno casino operator and car buff Bill Harrah five and one - half years later and began construction of his Reno Automotive Center.

After the center was completed, he leased the garage space to various auto repair specialists and spent most of his time preparing the racing and XKE Jaguar for San Francisco millionaire Kjell Qvale.

Brennan started the first drag strip in Nevada at the airport near Minden in 1958. He built an drove the first dragster from Reno area there that year. The flathead - powered dragster was the forerunner of the Warren Welsh "Shoehorn."

In 1964, Brennan raced the red, white and blue fastback XKE to the U.S. Road Racing Championship for Class B production sports cars.

He entered 30 races that year, winning 29 first place in his class and six over-all. That same year he set an American record by winning more races with the same car than any other driver in the history of U.S. road racing.

At that time he was also named a team driver for British Motors Co. in England, and drove a prototype MGB in the Sebring 12-hour endurance race.

Brennan was a crew member of Qvale's liquid suspension Indianapolis 500 car in 1965 which was driven by the late Walt Hansgen. He again campaigned on the West Coast in the XKE and captured the division championship. A broken crankshaft knocked him out of the national championships at Daytona Beach, Florida.

In 1966, Brennan built the first and only rear-engined short oval sprint car, racing it in Reno and Carson City and at the same time operated the Reno Dragway with strip owner George Peek of Lemon Valley.

The following year he was racing a production MGB for Oxford Motors of Sacramento. He decided to begin road racing professionally that year and bought the last Genie Group Seven sports racer that was built by Joe Huffaker of San Francisco.

A 327 cubic inch Chevrolet engine was mounted into the car and Brennan competed on the West Coast circuit. Plagued with poor handling and brake failures, he finished ninth out of a field of 33 in 1967 Canadian-American Challenge Cup at Laguna Seca, a remarkable finish considering he was competing against the top drivers of the world.

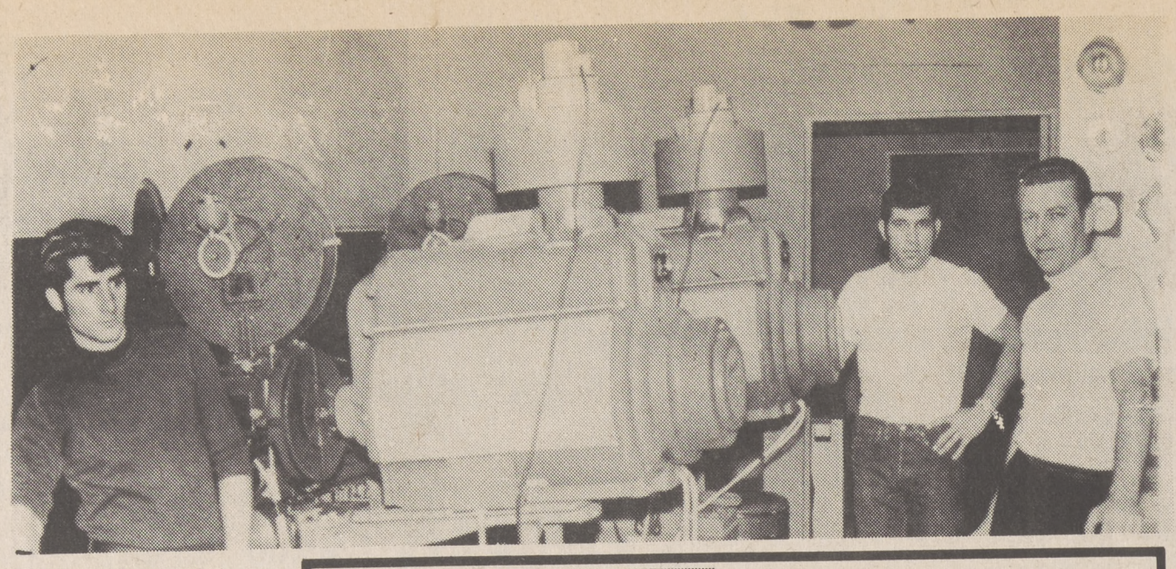

During the winter of 1967-68, he tore the Genie apart and rebuilt it. He entered seven races the following summer, winning four and setting records at the Donner Summit and Virginia City hillclimbs. He placed 11th out of 33 entries at the Can-Am.

The 1969 season saw Merle campaigning two cars. He was a team driver for BMC in San Francisco, driving their MGB to the Pacific Coast Divisional Championship but lost an oil plug at the Nationals in Daytona and had to retire.

In addition to the MGB, Brennan drove his own Chevrolet Genie to the Regional Championships. He sold the car recently and purchased another Genie that he is now preparing for next season.

This past season Brennan was named to drive an Oldsmobile in a NASCAR event at Sears Point, Calif., where he finished a respectable fourth for the first time ever driving in that type of event. He also drove a Mustang at the Trans-Am event at Sears Point.

Snowmobiling is all new to Reno's only professional national racing driver. But early practice sessions have shown him to be a real comer.

BEHIND THE CAMERAS - Rick Ogle, Bob Kinner and Wes Carrol are shown in the projection room at Cal Neva Lodge where "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" made a comeback in the Celebrity Theater. The film will be shown through Tuesday, Feb. 17. - Cal Neva Photo

Don Bickle. And 300 million dollars.

Lake Tahoe has just one bank of its very own. It ought to be a good one.

So we've added two great assets to help us bring Lake Tahoe the finest banking service it's ever known.

First, we're proud to announce the appointment of Donald K. Bickle as president of the bank. The many Lake Tahoe residents who remember Mr. Bickle as our vice-president in 1964 and 1965 will be pleased to see his bright and progressive policies at work here.

You can see the difference already. There's a new look. New efficiency. And some of the nation's most exciting new banking services will be announced in the next several weeks.

Second, Tahoe National is pleased to announce our affiliation with the Central Banking System. The association will permit us to offer a number of sophisticated banking services normally beyond the scope of a local bank, particularly in the area of commercial banking. Including access to Central Banking System's $300,000,000 in assets, when required.

That's a lot of assets for one friendly, little bank.

Stop in at our office in the Crescent V Shopping Center or our Tahoe Valley office. See what a difference our new assets have made already.

And watch for our exciting new services in the weeks ahead.

PREPARE FOR VISITORS - James Calhoun, director of the Nevada State Museum in Carson City, watches Dick Bache put the finishing touches on a new asphalt tile floor as the facility prepares for an on-slaught on some 300,000 visitors this year. Most of the tile, covering close to 2,950-square-feet, was installed on the museum's ground floor areas, including the offices, main hallway and mammal and gun rooms which get the most traffic, but some went into the well-stomped upper hallway, too. -Nevada State Museum Photo.

Thomas L. James - better known as Tom to his many friends - of Tahoe Vista was the honored guest at an installation dinner of the Native Sons of the Golden West at Auburn last week. Tom was presented with his 50-year membership pin.

Tom has lived at Tahoe since 1946, when he built his resort at Tahoe Vista. He was instrumental in forming the Business Men's Association, president and director of the Lake Tahoe-Sierra Chamber of Commerce, Lake Tahoe Area Council, and always a leader in civic activities to which he gives untiring service and interest.

From Auburn, he went on to visit in San Francisco, Southern California and Palm Springs but back to enjoy the beautiful Tahoe weather.

Pearl and Ted Draney are back to their Incline Beach home after a week's vacation at Palm Springs. Three year old, Joe Tamblyn, the Draney's grandson, accompanied them on the trip and kept them busy grandparents as well as vacationers. Joe goes into the hospital for a tonsilectomy next week.

Ray Plunkett is still confined at Carson-Tahoe Hospital in Carson City at this writing but hopes to be home this coming week. He is recuperating nicely and employees at the Crystal Bay Club hope for his early return.

The WSCS met Monday night at the home of Rev. William Wieldand at Kings Beach at their February meeting. Mary Ann Burke presented the program under direction of president Pearl Draney.

Congratulations to Dorothy Mercer and Ella Mae Porter, daughters of Carol Mercer of Incline Beach, on taking first and second place as winners in the Lake Almanor snowmobile races last weekend. These gals have more trophies than any other racers and no longer are they able to compete with the men - separate races are now organized for men and women. Well, they beat everyone they competed with!

Ella Mae's children, Franki and Jon accompanied them on the trip and all stayed with Dee and Carl Grindahl, longtime friends of the Mercers, while at the Lake.

Betty and Dave Solari and son, Davie, former Kings Beach residents of Litchfield were weekend guests at the home of Ceta and Harry hooper and sons, Charles and Jon, this past weekend.

Ann Gustafson of Reno, former Kings Beach resident, is spending an extended vacation in Hawaii.

Other recent vacationers to Hawaii include Bob and Dodie Davis of Sacramento, former Kings Beach residents, Maxine Plozin of Incline Beach and Dorothy Sipes and Skeet and Peggy Thompkins of Kings Beach.

Lou and Ken Hiatt and children of Kings Beach are Mexico bound for a vacation. Bern May is taking over the responsibility of their home and activities while they are absent.

Knitting is the "thing" occupying the 9-year-old daughter of Fay and Charlie Blackwell of Incline Village. While the strained knee suffered in a skiing accident is knitting, her mother is teaching Barbara to knit, so crutches and knitting needles are the "in" thing at the Blackwells.

Fay and Charlie entertained at a dinner party last week for their good neighbors, Helen and Roma Bade and Inez and J. C. Jordan.

Lorraine and Murph Murphy of Incline have some good neighbors too. Velda and Jack Farris entertained the Murphy's 5-year-old daughter, Jamie, while they attended a wedding in Beverly Hills last weekend.

The Farris' daughter, Sandy Pergin, of Riverside celebrated her birthday Feb. 10th.

Mary Kravchonak of Crystal Bay gave a luncheon at her home for the outgoing and new board members of the Women's Club of the North Shore. Attending were Betty Hitchcock, Fay Horsley, Mildred Hancock, Cleo Tsapralis, Alysmae Schultz, Kay Wing, Marguerite Ashton, Barbara Kindred, and Ardith Burrill.

The February meeting will be moved up to March 2 due to the three-day Washington's Birthday weekend. Place will be announced. Plans for the annual Hat Party will be formulated at this meeting.

Fund Set Up For Nevada Tahoe Park

CARSON CITY – About $4.2 million in state and federal funds are available for Nevada to acquire land on its side of Lake Tahoe Basin, according to Elmo DeRicco, director of the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources.

DeRicco said $2 million is in this year's state budget and $2.2 million in the Forest Service budget for acquisition of additional property for the Nevada Lake Tahoe State Park.

Smothers Brothers Return In February TV Comedy Special

The Smothers Brothers - Tom and Dick - will star in a one-hour comedy-variety special in color on the NBC Television Network Monday, Feb. 16 (10-11 p.m. PST), has been announced today by Mort Werner, vice president, Programs and Talent, NBC-TV Network.

Mr. Werner said: "We are very happy to bring Tom and Dick Smothers back to network television in their first show since the conclusion of their weekly variety series last summer. Along with their millions of fans, we look forward to a new edition of their bright, sharp comedy."

The guest roster and other details for the special will be announced.

The program will follow the telecast of "Chrysler Presents the Bob Hope Comedy Special" on Feb. 16, a "Multi-Special Night" on the NBC Television Network.

Mr. Werner said: "The Smothers Brothers will cap a night of comedy on NBC-TV. The evening opens with the whimsical humor of "My World and Welcome to It," which is followed by the rapidfire comedy of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," then the Hope and Smothers specials.

The weekly variety series starring the Smothers Brothers began on CBS-TV in January, 1967, and ended last season. Earlier, they starred in a half-hour situation comedy, also on CBS-TV.

They have appeared as guests on many NBC-TV programs, including "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" and and Andy Williams special last March. They will appear again on Andy's show Nov. 8 and Dick Smothers will appear on another NBC-TV special, "Norman Rockwell's America," Nov. 12.

The Smothers Brothers have starred in concert performances across the country and will be appearing at Harrah's Tahoe in early spring.

Mixes Jobs

Each week NBC-TV's "Then Came Bronson" opens with shots of Michael Parks riding out of the city and stopping at one intersection beside a motorist who says, "Man, I wish I was you." That "motorist" is Stuart Klitsner of Walnut Creek, Calif., who mixes acting jobs with his regular work as a school counselor. Klitsner holds a graduate degree in educational psychology from Columbia University.

SWINGIN' SAM – Sam Butera, one of the most exciting saxists and vocalists playing the nitery circuit today, returns to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks beginning Feb. 19. The Witnesses will appear along with Butera.

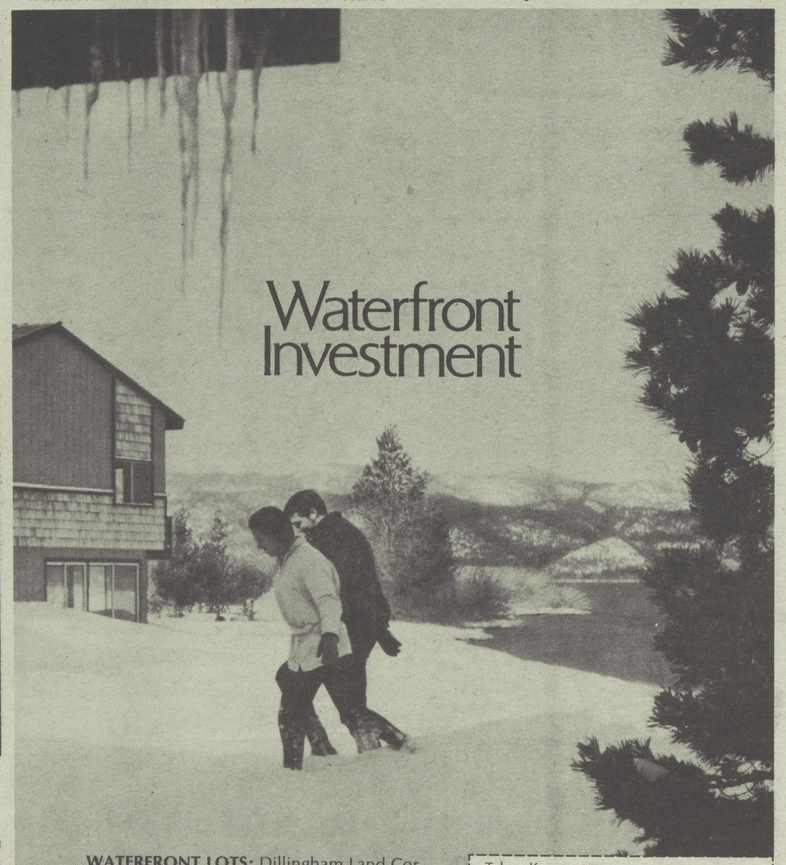

SET FOR CABARET – Moses and the Highbrows, a young singing trio hailing from the Philippines, will appear in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for one week through Feb. 18.

Gorshin And Friends Scheduled At Harrah's

With eyes closed, head tilted back and teeth gnashing, he points his right forefinger accusingly at the audience.

"You ditty rat," he says, twitching his neck and pulling his shoulders up, "You're gonna git it."

Just when visions of James Cagney confronting Edward J. Robinson in some lateshow flick come to mind, the face transforms into that of Kirk Douglas . . . then Brando . . . and so on.

Gorshin will offer two shows each night in the 750-seat South Shore Room, with comedian Doodles Weaver and acrobatic team the Agostinos on the same bill.

Not only is Gorshin the master of the comic impression, he is also an outstanding dramatic actor, a singer, dancer and comedian.

His all-around talent has evoked critical raves in every area of show business into which he has ventured - motion pictures, television, legitimate theatre, nightclubs and the concert stage.

A remarkably polished performer, he is totally committed to entertaining his audience.

Gorshin's drive to hone and polish every talent has not only brought him to the front, but promises to make him one of the entertainment field's all-time greats.

He works hard on any song routine as he does any of his many impressions.

He is most concerned when he acts a dramatic role on television that he emerges as the character in the play, not Gorshin, and comes off with as fine a performance as possible.

When he sings, when he wants to come across - he does - as a man with a unique and powerful voice, not an impressionist.

Gorshin's skills were first developed at Carnegie Tech's famed drama school, where he enrolled after completing high school in his home town of Pittsburg, Pa.

After a stint with Uncle Sam, Gorshin headed for Hollywood where a fortuitious appearance at a minor night club, the "Purple Onion", brought him to the attention of Steve Allen.

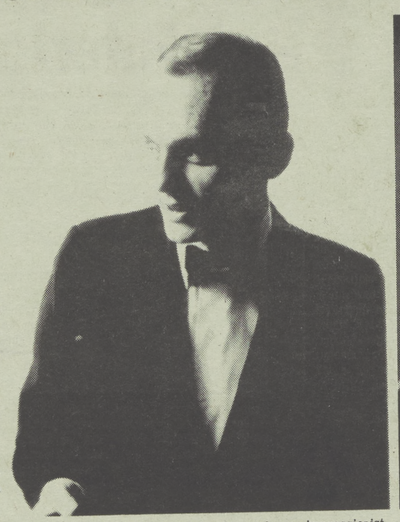

Allen put Gorshin on his TV show, and the talented performer has been working ever since.

Balancing the bill along with Doodles Weaver and the Agostinos will be the Brian Farnon Orchestra.

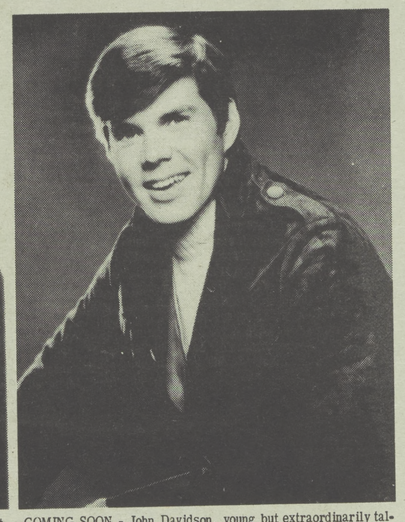

John Davidson, one of the brightest young stars in Hollywood, completes the February entertainment lineup with appearances Feb. 20-22 and also Feb. 27-28.

Davidson has completed films for Disney Studios, "The Happiest Millionaire" and "The One and Only Genuine Original Family Band."

He has also made his mark in the recording field with top-selling albums for Columbia Records.

MAN OF MANY VOICES - Actor-singer-dancer-impressionist Frank Gorshin brings his bag of surprises to Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room this weekend. The engagement will mark the debut for the man of a thousand faces.

COMING SOON - John Davidson, young but extraordinarily talented, will bring his show of song and spirit to Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room the next two weekends, Feb. 20 -22 and Feb. 27 - 28.

Dick Contino—Versatile Artist

When Dick Contino, either vocally or on the accordion, squeezes every ounce of expression from a song, you know he means it.

There's no put on, no contrived emotions with Contino, who opened Feb. 12 for one week in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret.

Contino sincerely feels a song, and is not reluctant to pour himself entirely into the lyrics in order to get across their meaning.

He has that uncommon ability to get the audience to feel with him – to participate – and not be on the outside looking in.

Opening night Contino was able to channel his unfettered emotions into a variety of songs, among them, "You're Too Good to be True," "Take My Happy Heart Away" and "That's Life."

Contino, considered a virtuoso on the accordion, put the instrument to good use during such numbers as "Who Can I Turn To?," "Hey Jude," "Glory Hallaluja" and "Ode to Billy Joe."

The audience didn't spare the palms throughout an accordion medley made up of "Lara's Theme" from the film "Dr. Zhivago," "Bells of St. Mary's" and "Exodus."

Born in Fresno, the son of a butcher who had migrated from Sicily, Contino started on the entertainment trail early in life.

He originally rose to fame as a juvenile performer on the Horace Heidt Show by going 14 weeks undefeated and went on to international success as a singer and accordionist.

Contino's career has had a dramatic resurgence during the past year as his uncomplicated style, free of detonating electronic sounds, continues to win over audiences.

Contino stands an impressive 6–1 with dark, Mediterranean features accented by rugged and simple clothes, and black hair which escapes down prominent cheekbones into sideburns.

Needless to say he wins over the feminine set.

Contino is currently recording several albums which should soon be available. The album selections will be his own vocal arrangements and will include "More Today Than Yesterday," "Without Her," "Yesterday," "Didn't We?," "Little Green Apples," etc.

His career has taken him around the world, not only to Vietnam, but Tokyo, Singapore, Mexico and even Russia for a tour organized by Ed Sullivan.

Contino recently concluded a highly successful engagement in Harrah's Casino Cabaret in Reno.

CONTINO IN CONCERT - Singer Dick Contino began a one-week stint in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret Feb. 12. The polished, energetic performer, also considered a virtuoso on the accordion, will entertain through Feb. 19.

BUTCH AND THE KID – You never met a pair like Butch and the Kid . . . just about everything they do is illegal. Paul Newman is Butch Cassidy and Robert Redford is the Sundance Kid in the 20th Century–Fox motion picture "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" showing through Feb. 17 in the Celebrity Theatre of Cal–Neva Lodge. Katharine Ross also stars in the movie filmed on location in Utah, Colorado and Mexico.

TV Drama Filmed In Trinidad

"Dream on Monkey Mountain," an original drama filmed on location in Trinidad will be the opening program in the 1970 "NBC Experiement in Television."

"Dream on Monkey Mountain" will be colorcast Sunday, Feb. 15 and will be the first of nine productions. Six of them will be new shows and three will be repeats selected from last season. One encore already selected is "Pinter People," which won both gold and silver Hugo Awards in the Chicago International Film Festival.

Kings Castle Reveals Latest Snowmobile Entry

A 22-year veteran of racing, Merle Brennan of Reno, Nevada, has been entered in the $50,000 Kings Castle Grand Prix, Feb. 26 through March 1, Leon Nightingale, president of the Cal-Neva Lodge, has announced.

Brennan will drive one of two Polaris' entered by the resort. John Brevick of Incline Village, casino floor manager at Cal-Neva, will be aboard the second entry.

Brennan, a former National "B" Production Sportscar Champion, is a member of the British Motors factory team and campaigns his own car in group seven road racing events. In 1964, the 42 year old driver raced a red, white, and blue fastback XKE to the U.S. Road Racing Championship for Class "B" production sports cars. He entered 31 races that year, capturing the checkered flag 29 times. That same year, he set an American record by winning more races with the same car than any other driver in the history of U.S. Road racing.

In 1969, Brennan was named to drive an Oldsmobile in a NASCAR event at Sears Point, California, where he finished a respectable fourth for the first time, ever, driving in that type of event. He also drove a Mustang at the Trans-Am event at Sears Point.

Snowmobiling is all new to Reno's only professional national race driver. But early practice sessions indicate he could be a bright light on the horizon, and one to watch out for.

Variety Act At Lodge

The action is fast-paced these nights in the Topaz Room of the Nevada Lodge, North Lake Tahoe, as the Stratus Singers continue with fun-filled vocal and instrumental musical entertainment.

The group includes four talented young people from Alberta, Canada. Heading the act is Murray Cameron, who's backed up by Brock Smith on lead guitar, and two attractive gals, Merry-Jo, lead singer, and Sandy Snowden, drummer and newest member.

They make today's sounds come alive in many exciting forms, best described as two parts folk-rock, one part jugband, a little hillbilly, a dash of vaudeville razzmatazz, a moan of the blues, and a spot of pop. Instrumentally, their appeal is distinctive, with two amplified guitars a bass, drums, and a washboard.

As one member of the group describes the act, "it's a circus."

Rain Hours

Coming out of the studio one overcast afternoon, Roger Barkley, of NBC-TV's "Name Droppers," looked at the sky and quipped, "If I were running the world I would see that it rained only between two and five o'clock in the morning. Anyone out then ought to get wet."

Prefers Horses

Sara Lane, star of NBC-TV's "The Virginian," still insists she would rather have a horse than the finest sports car. Sara, who owns horses, has no desire to learn to drive a car.

CHATAUX STAR – Charlie Blackwell and his quartet are now appearing at the popular Chataux in Incline Village. The well–known group, which comes to the Chataux from Harvey's on Lake Tahoe's south shore will perform nightly Tuesday through Sunday. Blackwell is a former drummer with Stan Kenton, Charlie Barnett, Woody Herman and Dave Brubeck, who switched to the guitar and formed his own group.

Charlie Brown Show Encores

Cocky beagles who bark out retorts such as "bleah" and "rats" when they doggedly disagree with their masters occasionally need a figurative slap on the paws. And Snoopy, the not perfectly peerless pooch of Charles Schulz's "Peanuts" clan, is no exception - as he learns to his canine chargrin on

"He's Your Dog, Charlie Brown," the animated color cartoon special to be rebroadcast Sunday, Feb. 15 on the CBS Television Network.

Gridiron Guests

Pro football's two top stars, Roman Gabriel of the Rams and Daryle Lamonica of the Raiders, have been signed by Naborly Productions' executive producer, Richard O. Linke, as guest stars on "The Jim Nabors Hour," taping this week at Television City in Hollywood.

Beverlee & Sidro with the Sneakers will be making their second guest appearance this season on the same show.

"The Jim Nabors Hour" is seen Thursdays (8:00-9:00 PM, PT) in color on the CBS Television Network.

Stresses Realism

Jack Webb, of NBC-TV's "Dragnet 1970," continues to be a stickler for realism, even after 20 years of the show. A script called for a clumber spaniel. Researchers revealed that there are only about 40 of the rare dog breed in the U. S. and less than 500 in the world. But the show's set dresser turned up a whole dog family in Orange County.

TANTALIZING TRIO - The Promises, Sandi, Monda and Cheri, open an engagement in the Juniper Lounge of Hotel Sahara-Tahoe Feb. 19.

MUSIC AFTER MIDNIGHT - Page Cavanaugh Trio is currently providing music and entertainment in Sahara's Pine Cone Lounge for Lake Tahoe night people. Cavanaugh's engagement at Sahara- Tahoe is for an indefinite length.

Set For Mission

HALF A TEAM - Jackie Vaughn, a multi-talented young man, is appearing with Herb Eberle in the Theatre Lounge, Harvey's Resort Hotel, through Feb. 15.

AT HARVEY'S - Renee Noel, a blonde bombshell is appearing on the Phil Campos-Renee Noel Show in Harvey's Resort Hotel Theatre Lounge through Feb. 26.

Campos, Noel Now On Harvey's Stage

Renee Noel, blonde bombshell singer, appearing with Phil Campos, through Feb. 26 at Harvey's Resort Hotel Theatre Lounge, is a real trooper.

Renee takes to the mike like Grant took Richmond. Startling effects result as she belts out one tune after the other. One must admire her courage, her spirit, her confidence and her friendliness that seems to greet you musically with "Hi, pardner!" She adds a certain tang, crispness, to an ultra sophisticated atmosphere.

By the time Renee finishes singing "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands," she has the whole wide world in her hands. Uniting all forces to join her, she has everyone clapping and beating out the infectious melody, shouting, "everyone join - it's the only way to enjoy," her fervor seeps the room and everyone with her.

Her repertoire consists mostly of such familiar airs, ballads, romantic blues as "On A Clear Day," a "Judy Garland Medley," a "Dixie" arrangement, which she really belts out. "San Francisco" is one of her redeeming numbers.

"For Once In My Life," romantic blues, she gives it all she has, releasing powerful emotions "lagrimose." Her raspy beginning of "Rockabye Your Baby with A Dixie Melody" blends into breathless murmurs.

Appearing with Phil Campos - Renee Noel Show in the Theatre Lounge is lovely songstress, Ree Brunell with the Barons, through Feb. 18. She sings her ballads with such charm and her song stylings have made her one of the more popular lounge stars in the Nevada-Northern California circuit. The superb musical backing of her instrumentalists, displays an astonishing richness of tone, enhancing the vocals of Ree Brunell.

To round out the enjoyment at Harvey's Theatre Lounge, are two entertaining and talented musicians, Eberle and Vaughn, through Feb. 15.

Herb Eberle and Jackie Vaughn are a pleasure to watch as they sing the current hits with the old songs and make a fast paced show set.

Individualist

William Windom, who plays the individualist John Monroe on NBC-TV's "My World and Welcome To It," is an individualist in real life, too. He prefers to shave with a straight razor and even rolls his own cigarettes.

Ann Bancroft Subject Of Television Special

Anne Bancroft, whose notable acting performances have been divided between Broadway and Hollywood, makes one of her rare television appearances when she stars in her own special, "Annie, The Woman In The Life Of A Man," to be presented in color on the CBS Television Network Wednesday, Feb. 18.

(Editor's Note: This broadcast will pre-empt "Medical Center" on the network on this date.)

Miss Bancroft, whose achievements have ranged from her memorable Annie Sullivan in "The Miracle Worker" on Broadway to her acclaimed Mrs. Robinson in the film "The Graduate," will act, clown, sing and dance on her special, revealing facets of her considerable talent aside from straight dramatic acting.

Appearing with her in a series of varied sketches and numbers will be Lee J. Cobb, Robert Merrill of the Metropolitan Opera, Arthur Murray, David Susskind, Jack Cassidy, Dick Shawn, John McGiver and Dick Smothers.

Executive producer of the Bancroft special is Joseph Cates. Martin Charnin created and produced the show, and Walter Miller directed.

OTHER HALF - Herb Eberle, a talented and versatile musician, is appearing with Jackie Vaughn in the Theatre Lounge of Harvey's Resort Hotel. Eberle and Vaughn are popular regulars at the Tahoe club.

Tahoe First U.S. Stop For Irish Band

Know how to make an Irishman stew?

"Irish potatoes, boneless lamb shoulder, dumplings, onions, peas, turnips, carrots . . ."

Wrong.

An Irishman stews when the country's popular Royal Show Band leaves the homeland and embarks on its annual tour of the U.S.

Harrah's Stateline Cabaret, where the seven-member Irish band will appear through Feb. 18, is the first stop on the tour.

Musically proficient, vocally endowed and totally professional, the group immediately caught fire with local audiences following its Jan. 29 debut, and has been fanning the flames since.

Mix together an Irish Tom Jones, an Irish Boots Randolph, an Irish Herb Alpert, an Irish Johnny Cash, plus others, and you have a fair idea of what Ireland's Royal Show Band does on stage.

In positive, full command of its material, the group is one of the most talented, most versatile acts ever to perform at Harrah's.

During an hour's turn selections run the gamut from Irish ballads to current standards to country-western to Latin.

Personality, assured delivery and cohesiveness are big plusses which make the band strong applause pullers.

Saxist Michael Coppinger is the leader, with Brendan Bowyer handling most of the singing chores. Bowyer also plays trombone.

Bassist Tom Dunphy's vocal strength lies in country and western, while drummer Charlie Matthrews scores heavily with current ballads.

Competent backing is supplied by Ed Sullivan, trumpet; Tim Conlon, guitar; and Jerry Cullen, piano.

The Royal Show Band also features four lovely Irish colleens – Rita Holohan, Pauline Barry, Phyllis McCullough and Mary Richmond – who dance the traditional Irish dances, as well as rock numbers.

The tight, variegated tempo of the band's hour is set early with three contrasting numbers.

Bowyer opens with the hard-hitting Tom Jones number, "Love Me Tonight," followed by Dunphy's country "She Taught Me to Yodel" and Matthrews' sensitive rendering of "Winter World of Love."

Decked out in fetching mini-sailor suits, the four femmes add vitality to "Wreck of the John B" with imaginative, perfectly-timed choreography, obviously the result of long practice hours.

Bowyer again takes to the mike with "Suspicious Minds," and doesn't hesitate to throw in some Presley body English.

Midway through the hour, the Royal Show Band hits a high point with a representative medley of Irish selections.

Hornpipe and Irish jigs are performed flawlessly by the dancers, while Bowyer and Matthrews pour themselves into song about Ireland, bringing out color and tonal quality.

Bowyer's intrepretation of "Danny Boy" carries an internal integrity vividly transmitted with his full and rich tenor voice.

Like Bowyer, Matthrews expresses lyric awareness. He exhibits a soft, pleasant vocal elan well suited for "Tooraloora," a lullaby.

Complacency is always left swirling in the dust by the Royal Show Band. Departing from the tearful Irish songs, it leaps headlong into Alpert's "Tijuana Taxi" with strong lungwork from Coppinger on the sax, Bowyer on the trombone and Sullivan on the trumpet.

The band continues to ride the musical roller coaster, coming down for Matthrews' "Somewhere My Love" (sometimes "Love's Been Good to Me") and back up again for Coppinger's rousing blast through "Yakety Sax."

Lee Marvin To Narrate 'It Couldn't Be Done'

Academy Award-winner Lee Marvin will be the host and narrator for "It Couldn't Be Done," the one-hour entertainment special saluting outstanding American achievements, to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Thursday, April 2.

The program, produced by Lee Mendelson (with Walter DeFaria), will visit projects which were once thought to be impossible - including the Golden Gate Bridge, Holland Tunnel, Panama Canal, and Mount Rushmore Memorial - and present interviews with persons who took part in their construction. In addition, the program will salute a more recent achievement - the victory of the New York Mets over the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series. Mendelson is writing the script for the program.

Marvin, now starring in the movie musical, "Paint Your Wagon," won an Oscar for his comedy performance in "Cat Ballou." Among his many other movie roles are those in "Ship of Fools," "Hell in the Pacific" and "Donovan's Reef."

He has appeared in more than 250 television programs, including the starring role in the "M Squad" series which was seen on the NBC Television Network from 1957 to 1960.

Hit With Kids

Don Ameche, in his debut as a TV director, scored a hit with the child actors on NBC-TV's "Julia" series. Marc Copage and Michael Link momentarily forgot about the scene they were shooting and began to play. Marc was Captain Friday and Mike, Captain Schultz. Ameche interrupted, "This is Captain Doomsday and both of you are fired, so why don't you try acting."

Writes Mystery

Jacqueline Babbin, producer of the March 13 "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special, "Neither Are We Enemies," on NBC-TV, has written a murder mystery. Titled "Deadly Special," it concerns actors in a TV special who are being floored by more than the dialogue.
